GOVERNOR HAS NO CLAIM ON PARTY, DECLARES LENROOT

NOT ENTITLED TO REPUBLICAN SUPPORT, SAYS SENATOR.

GIVEN GLAD HAND

Speaker Packs Beloit Theater and Draws Cheers by Attack on Bob.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Beloit—Cheered and applauded over and over again by an audience that packed the Wilson theater where he spoke, Senator Irvine L. Lenroot made the first address of the campaign last night and, in spite of his long illness, showed his old time fire and vigor.

A band, with streets illuminated by red fire and torches, came down to the theater when Senator Lenroot arrived. But the theater was packed at 7:30, a half hour before the meeting began. There was a concert by the Fairbanks-Morse band in its usual fine style.

Salvo of Applause.

The senator was given a great salvo of applause when he said that Blaine and others, who were clinging to the republican name only to get votes, were not entitled to support of any republican. "I am glad to be in Rock county where men and women do their own thinking and do not allow some one else to

SHENANDOAH NEAR PACIFIC COAST ON ITS LONG FLIGHT

BULLETIN.

Los Angeles—The navy dirigible Shenandoah passed over Gila, Ariz., at 9:37 a. m., mountain time, according to advices to the Southern Pacific company here.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

San Diego, Cal.—The Shenandoah, Leviathan of the air, continued her transcontinental journey through fair weather lanes today, approaching the Pacific coast and San Diego, her first far western objective.

Cruising through the southern air route from Fort Worth, Tex., since 9:45 a. m., central standard time, yesterday, the monster aircraft, under the guiding hand of Commander Lansdowne, moved through a country where mountains made it necessary to stab the skies at a greater altitude at times, but this condition gave the crew an opportunity to display increased skill in handling their craft in the high places.

Traveling 6,000 feet above the sea level, with the ease and grace afforded by balmy weather, at a speed of about 45 miles an hour, the Shenandoah slipped quietly into Arizona early today and at 6:30 a. m., mountain time, had passed over Tucson. The dirigible appeared to be following closely the line of the Southern Pacific railway.

San Diego, the rendezvous of daring airmen and scene of many aircraft records, was awaiting the arrival of the Shenandoah today.

ENGLAND SEES BITTER DRIVE FOR ELECTION

London—With parliament dissolved at the request of Premier MacDonald, following the defeat of the government in the house of commons, the utterances of the politicians and comments of the press indicate that the coming elections on Oct. 29 is likely to be one of the bitterest in recent years. Sidney Webb, president of the board of trade, is quoted as saying that the campaign will be "an especially dirty one," and the angry tone already manifest in many declarations seems to justify the prediction.

You will find all the election news in the Gazette. It will be boiled down so that you can read it. Are you following David Lawrence? Do you note that no big event is not first told in your own paper if it happens the same day? And the Saturday and Sunday Gazette is full of interest tomorrow.

F. S. Baines Makes $10,000 Gift for "Y" Building Fund

F. S. Baines, well-known citizen and friend of boys, in a communication to J. A. Steiner, secretary of the Janesville Y. M. C. A., announces that he will give $10,000 to the Y. M. C. A. new building fund of $275,000, the campaign for which will start Oct. 21.

In making his gift Mr. Baines states that during his connection of 10 years with the work of the local Y. M. C. A. he has realized the inadequacy of the present building to meet present-day conditions and demands in Janesville. Mr. Baines says in part, "The Y. M. C. A. building has been in constant use for about 30 years and for a long time has failed to provide the space and facilities we need to render the best

Counterfeiters Bagged by Marshal

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Richfield, Wis.—Edwain Borchert, who federal officers claim is a member of a gang of counterfeit bill passers, was arrested here today by William R. Phillips, deputy United States marshal. The arrest was the fourth made in several days. He was taken before United States Commissioner J. W. McMillan, who fixed bail at $1,000 and continued the case to Oct. 14.

The bill alleged to have been passed by Borchert and others are said to have been a part of bundles of spurious currency thrown from a train six months ago by counterfeiters who were being pursued by federal officers.

Other persons under arrest on similar charges are Arthur Degler, a Washington county farmer, his wife, Emma Degler, and her sister, Miss Elthea Schwulst. The women were released on their own recognizance and Degler was held under $1,000 bond, to appear for a hearing later.

Miss Elthea, officers say, is charged with possession of counterfeit bills, but she denies this charge, asserting that a garment in which bills are alleged to have been found, was the property of Mrs. Degler, loaned to her.

HIGH LINES OUT ON LIGHT CIRCUIT

Dim, Religious Atmosphere in City When Juice Ceases to Flow.

All sorts of emergency help was called to the assistance of the Janesville division of the Wisconsin Light and Power company, Thursday afternoon and evening, when service via the high lines ceased at 2:53 p. m. It was resumed at 8:14.

The trouble, it was later found, was in two broken wires on the two lines between here and Prairie du Sac, one being broken two miles south of Dane, and the other two miles south of Lodi—within six miles of each other.

When both lines were shut off, the local steam plant was put into service carrying part of the load. At 5:40 connections were made with the line west from Janesville, from Freeport, which aided to the extent of 400 kilowatts, so that everything was carried except the street lights. The General Motors plant also gave assistance, starting at 7:05, with the result that all of the city was illuminated except the street lights in the outlying districts. This served until service on the high line was resumed.

Milton, Edgerton an Cambridge also were affected by the trouble. Service in Milton was resumed at 5:40 and Edgerton was supplied by the local plants.

"I haven't learned what caused the lines to break in the middle of a span," William Schmidley, manager, said Friday. "Whether they were broken by rifle shots or something else, I do not know."

ONE HELD IN CONNECTION WITH THEFT

The 1923 Chevrolet sedan of Miss Gladys Hawk, South Jackson street, stolen here Aug. 25 was driven back to Janesville, Thursday afternoon, from Chicago, where it was recovered on Tuesday. According to word brought back from that city, one man is being held as a result of the theft. It is charged he is the head of a ring that has stolen some 25 cars the past few months and federal authorities are holding him. He was arrested as the one who sold the car for $550 to the man who had it in his possession when it was identified as stolen.

Former Janesville Belle Sued by Mabel Normand for Half Million Damages

Charging that her reputation has been damaged so she no longer can proceed with the profitable production of pictures, Mabel Normand, film star, has filed a $500,000 damage suit in the Los Angeles court against Mrs. Georgia Withington Church, a belle of Janesville many years ago, and whose story of marital troubles was recently told in the Gazette.

The libel suit is a sequel to the amended complaint for divorce from Norman W. Church, millionaire Los Angeles clubman, which Mrs. Church recently filed, naming, Mabel Normand and two other women, Miss Grace MacDougall, Chicago, now married to a man named Hitchcock, of Washington, D. C.

Completely denying Mrs. Church's charges of intimacy with Mr. Church when they were both confined in the Good Samaritan hospital, the former leading lady of Charlie Chaplin, claims her $150,000 yearly income from her pictures has been destroyed.

Church has also entered a denial to his estranged wife's charges, which asserted that the film star shared her flowers, kisses and whiskey with him and appeared in his room in negligee.

Umpires—At plate, Dinneen; first base, Quigley; second base, Connolly; third base, Klem.

Griffith Stadium—Washington's team proudly known as the Senators, tail enders or near there for many years, emerged from the 7th game of the world series this afternoon champions of the baseball world.

At the end of the ninth when Washington was facing the opportunity of clamping the pennant in its vice, the Giants invincible in defense, held the Senators to the zero mark and threw the game into another inning.

Johnson went into the box in the 9th and the goose eggs began to appear regularly on the score board against the Giants in the 9th, 10th and 11th.

There in the last thrilling moments Walter Johnson, idol of baseball, with one run only to get for his team and a pennant in sight, stood like a stone wall against the batting hordes of the Giants. The crowd was tensely excited and as batter after batter went down or was halted at first or died on second, grim determination again was evidenced, in every man Jack of the American League team now coming for a time into the view of the whole world or wherever Americans gather or live or travel.

And so to the last of the 12th Walter Johnson came forth from the pitcher's box king of 'em all at last.

Peck Badly Hurt.

Peckinpaugh was not in uniform this afternoon and it was learned that examination of the injury to his right leg had shown several torn muscles, not pulled tendons or "charley horse," as had been thought at first. He was able to walk around but will not be able to do anything strenuous for some time.

Speculators obtained a goodly supply despite the vigilance of federal and municipal agents and they did a brisk business. Tickets sold for as high as $150 apiece in instances where purchasers were willing to pay almost any price to see the deciding contest.

BOMB EXPLOSION WRECKS BLIMP AT NEWPORT NEWS, VA.

TWO OFFICERS BADLY INJURED IN FALL OF AIRSHIP.

FIVE IN HOSPITAL

Use of Non-Inflammable Gas in Big Bag Prevents Real Tragedy.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Newport News, Va.—The army blimp TC-3, the largest non-rigid lighter than air craft yet built in the United States, was badly damaged and several of her crew injured today when a bomb she was carrying exploded while she was in the air over Langley Field.

Lieut. Bruce N. Martin, pilot of the ship, which belongs at the Aberdeen, Md., proving ground, and Lieut. Alfred J. Puryear, observer, were seriously injured, while three sergeants composing the enlisted personnel of the vessel were shocked by the explosion but not seriously hurt.

The explosion of the bomb broke the gas bag of the ship, which came to the ground as the non-inflamable helium with which the bag was filled escaped. The crew had no time to take to parachutes.

The full extent of the damage to the ship has not been determined beyond the fact that the gas bag was severely torn by the explosion and fall which followed.

The fact that the ship was inflated with non-explosive helium gas probably prevented her complete destruction and the loss of the lives of all the members of her crew.

150 Feet in Air.

At the time of the explosion the TC-2 was about 150 feet in the air. For the first few seconds the craft fell slowly but spectators below soon saw a puff of smoke, heard a muffled roar of the bomb and then the hiss of gas and the blimp hurtled pummel-like to earth. It did not catch fire, but struck the ground with great force.

All five of the men were rushed to the base hospital at Ft. Monroe by airplane and ambulance for examination.

4 MENTIONED FOR HIGH WALTON POST

"Outdoor" Smith Among Those in Line for State Presidency.

The names of four men are being mentioned as possibilities for the second president of the Wisconsin Division of the Izaak Walton League of America, to succeed Judge Henry Grass, Green Bay. Judge Grass was the state chairman named by the national organization preparatory to the establishment of a permanent state division and was elected to the presidency at Fond du Lac last winter.

J. E. McCready, Fond du Lac, the present state secretary, seems to be the man most talked of for the job of directing the activities of the 81 chapters now in the state organization with a membership that exceeds 7,000. "Jack," a Scotch-Canadian, has been considered one of the most active men in the state division for the past two years and is being broached by many for the job. However, in a recent letter, he declared he would not want the job, but will be ready to continue as secretary.

Radke Is Mentioned

Louis Radke, Horicon, present state "like" treasurer and head of the Horicon marsh project, is reported also as a possible candidate for the office. Mr. Radke broke into prominence in Wisconsin Walton circles through his fight to have the Horicon marsh restored.

Others are talking of John M. McHale, Green Bay, an attorney and ardent outdoors man. It may be news even to Mr. McHale to know that he is being considered, but there appears to be a growing movement in his favor. He has written a proposed platform for the state organization, some of which will probably be a part of the statement of aims and principles that will be adopted by the convention. He is a member of the state directors and of the platform committee.

Election Is Oct. 16

The Rev. O. W. Smith, Evansville, second vice president of the state organization and a member of the nationaly "like" board of directors, is also being mentioned. The Rev. Mr. Smith is known throughout the nation as "Outdoors" Smith. He is the author of several books on fishing, a contributor to many outdoor magazines, and the conductor of a fish column in a daily newspaper. He has been active in the organization of many Izaak Walton chapters in various sections of the state.

Officers of the state division will be chosen on the afternoon of Oct. 16. A nominating committee will be elected in the morning of that day.

F. S. BAINES GIVES $10,000 TOWARD Y BUILDING CAMPAIGN

type of Y. M. C. A. work in Janesville. We have spent thousands of dollars trying to keep it up to the growing needs of our work for boys and young men but it has been unavailing and I am glad to take part at this time in the erection of a new Y. M. C. A. building and I am going to assist the project as much as possible.

"In making my contribution of $10,000 toward the building of a new Y. M. C. A. for Janesville, I have soberly and earnestly considered the matter and I deem it a pleasure to make this gift to so worthy a cause and I do so voluntarily because of my appreciation of the need and my confidence in the leadership of Joe Steiner and others of the Y. M. C. A. staff and directorate.

Greater and Stronger.

"I believe the Y. M. C. A. work is greater and stronger than ever before in the history of the movement here. I am assured that with a modern building, more and better dormitories, better cafeteria facilities and better attractions for the members the income from the building will be increased very materially and there will not be the call for such a large amount to be raised annually to maintain our working forces as we have been obliged to raise in the past.

"I know there are many people in Janesville able to give for this new building enterprise amounts equal to mine and some who can and will do better. I have talked with them and I trust that my gift and others to follow will open the eyes of those who may not be quite so familiar with the splendid work of the Y. M. C. A. and that they will give their hearty support to the campaign for $275,000 and there will be no doubt about going over the top."

Resident 60 Years.

Mr. Baines has been a resident of Janesville for about 60 years, coming here in early boyhood. He has been prominently identified with the best civic movements and business life of the city. Mr. Baines has always manifested a keen interest in the Y. M. C. A., particularly in its religious work and its financial support. For years he has been one of the most generous contributors to its current needs. During the years 1916 to 1920 inclusive he served as the president of the association. In addition to his gift of $10,000 Mr. Baines also voluntarily offered to serve as captain of one of the soliciting teams in the campaign organization and will serve in this capacity for team one of the "Bear Cats" division.

Boost to Campaign.

Secretary Steiner, in commenting on Mr. Baines' contribution said:

"We are certainly greatly encouraged by the fine spirit displayed by Mr. Baines. We feel sure his gift of $10,000 will greatly stimulate interest in our new building project and at the same time suggest the type of subscriptions we must have to make a complete success of our campaign. While he was president there was scarcely a day but that he visited the building and he has always shown a deep concern for the welfare of our Janesville boys and young men. We are also certain that his contribution of time and effort in the campaign as a team leader will be productive of excellent results, for he has always been one of our most successful solicitors whether we were after members or money for maintenance. I desire to publicly express my appreciation of Mr. Baines' friendship and co-operation to me personally and to the association."

La Follette Not Strong With the Kansas Voters

David Lawrence

Copyright 1924, by the Janesville Gazette—Special Correspondence to the Janesville Gazette.

Topeka, Kan. — Some important shifts may be looked for in the last three weeks of campaign in Kansas, and John W. Davis, the the democratic nominee for president, may be the beneficiary thereof.

Kansas, as usual, is different. When in 1916 it turned over a solidly republican majority and was carried for Wilson, everybody was surprised, including many of the democratic leaders. There are possibilities here of an upset. One thing seems certain—John W. Davis instead of Senator La Follette will be second in this state, if not first.

Informal polls taken by precincts cannot always be relied upon, but allowing for the usual inaccuracies thus early in the campaign, they indicate that Senator La Follette has not made the inroads into the democratic vote here that he has in other states. Railroad labor in many sections of the country is solidly for La Follette but in Kansas it isn't. The railroads have formed what is known as "company unions" and they come much closer to influencing their employes than is the case in other states.

Just now the drive is on to recover votes that were originally inclined to be for La Follette. The democrats admit that their losses at the outset were heavy, but they insist that they will regain a great many. Local issues are also a vital factor in an analysis of Kansas. Gov. Jonathan Davis, democrat, carried the state by a substantial majority two years ago. This means that the democratic party has an organization and plenty of fight. John W. Davis made a favorable impression when he spoke here and there seems to be more enthusiasm in the square inch among the democratic organization workers in Kansas than the writer has discovered in any state yet visited.

Democrats Alive in Kansas

The democrats have spiked one bit of republican strategy which has worked well in other states. The republicans have been hammering away at the idea that John W. Davis would be a poor third. The purpose of this was to steer conservative democrats to the Coolidge ticket with the argument that the common enemy being La Follette, no chances should be taken in defeating him or preventing him, at least, from throwing the election into the house of representatives.

Kansas also isn't in a radical mood. The state is enjoying unusual good fortune. Not only was the wheat crop good but the corn crop was splendid, too, and to have two good crops when prices happen to be high is a stroke of good luck that few states can boast. Under these economic conditions there isn't much of a protest vote. Indeed, there will be apathy instead and the party workers will have difficulty in getting out a big vote.

The Kent Article

What are the issues? President Coolidge was at the height of his popularity in June, but there have been recessions since. The democrats have literally flooded the state with copies of Frank R. Kent's recent magazine article describing President Coolidge as having less behind his silence than the public generally imagines.

So the situation has resolved itself into a democratic and republican fight and with a state inclined to be conservative this year the choice appears to be between two safe and sane candidates—Coolidge and John W. Davis, instead of between Coolidge and La Follette.

The Klan Issue

The Ku Klux Klan issue is a very potent factor on the surface. How much it will count on election day nobody pretends to know. William Allen White entered the gubernatorial race as an independent candidate. He says the attitude of the republican candidate for governor, Ben Paulen, on the Ku Klux isn't satisfactory. He says he would prefer another term by the democratic governor, Jonathan M. Davis, to the election of the republican nominee.

The republican managers have for some time been scared by this flank attack from one of the best known natives of Kansas. Now they are beginning to persuade themselves that White will simply split the democratic vote, which is largely anti-klan, and that the election of Paulen will be assured. Not so in democratic circles where they point with significance to the fact that scarcely a day passes that some negro lodge or organization doesn't send copies to headquarters of the resolutions they have passed on to the White House petitioning President Coolidge to come out squarely against the klan in a statement over his own signature.

The negro vote is estimated at 50,000. The democrats cannot expect all of this but every vote they get is a gain over previous years, for it is quite out of the ordinary for negroes to invite the democratic state chairman to attend their meetings, and that's what has been happening out here.

The shift in the negro vote, the recovery of the LaFollette votes by John W. Davis, and the steady anti-Coolidge campaign being carried on by the democrats, is the main source of their optimism. They may be right but the writer is inclined to believe that as the race approaches a climax the president will have the advantage in the contest for electoral votes of Kansas. Those who have been counting on La Follette to carry Kansas, however, might as well cross that off their list of conjectures.

The Girl Who Sinned-to Save

Has every woman her price? When the life of a loved one is at stake, is there a degree of desperation, that over-rides every instinct of honor in a woman's soul?

In the November issue of True Story Magazine is the story of a girl who faced that tragic problem. Her bitter fight against the cruel conditions that threatened to destroy her soul—and her final triumph is one of the most heart-stirring, powerfully dramatic true-life stories ever told. It is entitled "A Modern Magdalen," and is only one of the great features in the November issue of True Story Magazine.

Real, Live Chickens Are Sought for Fund to Aid County Home Agent Plan

Girls versus chickens. No, the typesetter didn't make a mistake and substitute versus for are. The real point is that there is a group of level-headed farm women in Rock county who would rather have the 3,087 girls in farm homes think a little more about efficient homemaking and a little less about being "chickens" themselves, and so they decided at a meeting in the court house here Thursday afternoon to ask every farmer's wife in Rock county to donate one real, honest-to-goodness poultry yard chicken help toward the fund needed to support a woman home agent. The issue will be carried to every farm home in Rock county by well organized township committees who will collect and market the chickens and send the receipts to the treasurer of the county committee, Mrs. Marcus Kellogg, route 4, Janesville.

Will See County Board.

And for fear that there might be some slip-up in getting enough chickens donated to provide the $1,600 that must yet be raised, it was voted to name committees to present the matter to the county board at the November session, and to communicate with the business men of the county with a view to securing some help. It was pointed out that business men have contributed liberally to county-wide agencies having to do mainly with the welfare of farm boys and men and the man's side of farming, and the hope was expressed that a similar interest would be shown in the securing of a worker for girls and women.

But the main drive will be for chickens. It will only require an average of about one chicken for every two girls between the ages of 4 and 20 years living on Rock county farms, to put the project across. The organization of township committees will be announced when completed. The "chicken" drive is to be made between now and Nov. 1.

Endorsed by Farm Bureau.

Mrs. Marcus Kellogg, Rock township, presided at Thursday's meeting, which was attended by 25 women. Harry Spooner, Union township, chairman of the county committee, was unable to be present. Hugh Hemmingway, secretary Rock County Farm Bureau, gave a short talk in which he explained why the Farm Bureau directors had decided of their own accord to contribute $500 toward the home agent fund.

"We believe the women and girls should have a leader just as well as the men and boys" said Mr. Hemmingway. "We can't afford to neglect the girls on the farms. Our Junior club committee found that more than 100 farm girls wanted to do home economics club work, but we had no one to direct this work. We are satisfied that many times this number will take up girls' club work if we have a county leader to organize it. The home agent could do this work and also give much help to women's groups in different ways."

One woman reported that a check-up in her township showed that 75 per cent of the girls brought up in farm homes in recent years have gone to the city.

$30 TOTAL LOOT IN RAILROAD HOLDUPS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Carlyle, Ill.—Four robbers entered the depot of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at 4 a. m., held up the night operator, Walter Hayes, and escaped with a pouch of first class mail and $33,000 in cash, after holding up the operator at the depot in Sandoval, 14 miles east of here. The amount stolen at Sandoval is not known.

Uncle Joe Cannon, referring to La Follette, said, "I have little regard for a man who is elected as a republican or democrat and then turns around and raises the devil with those who put him in office."

North Avenue Viaduct, Milwaukee; one of the many projects in this territory in which Marquette Cement has been used

Chevalier de La Salle's first visit to Milwaukee, about 1679

MILWAUKEE, since the dawn of history in the great Northwest, has always held a position of peculiar importance.

Situated midway between the settlements at Green Bay and the Chicago portage leading to the Mississippi Valley, it was the meeting place of missionary, Indian, fur trader and voyageur for nearly two centuries. Louis Joliet, Pere Marquette, Robert de La Salle, Henri Tonti were early visitors and their names will always be associated with this section.

Today Milwaukee takes first rank among the great cities of the world, exceeding the most sanguine dreams of her founders. Within its borders are to be found many splendid buildings and public improvements in the construction of which portland cement has been used extensively. We consider it a privilege to have had a part in this development.

JAMES BARRIAGE DIVORCED BY WIFE

Cruelty Charged by Woman of 63 Against Husband, Aged 39.

Nettie D. Barriage, 63, obtained a divorce from James Gordon Barriage, 39, following a hearing in the Jefferson county circuit court, Jefferson, before Judge George Grimm Thursday afternoon. The decree was granted on evidence of cruel and inhuman treatment other than physical violence.

The plaintiff was a widow, her first husband being Robert L. Robinson, when she married the defendant during Feb., 1922. She has an estate of $60,000, according to the complaint. It was charged that Barriage employed "cutting sarcasm respecting the age of his wife" and told her he did not marry her for her companionship and in addition refused to attend social gatherings in her company.

The plaintiff resumed the name of Nettie D. Roberts. Attorney E. D. McGowan, Janesville, appeared for the plaintiff.

Preliminary papers have been filed in the Rock county circuit court in a divorce petition by Herman Mundth against Hazel Mundth.

When a hearing was being held on a legal question in the divorce action of Daisy Armstrong against her husband, James Armstrong, before a court commissioner here, the wife dropped and interrupted the proceedings to demand the withdrawal of the case. A motion to dismiss the action from the circuit court books is expected at the next session of court here.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL SONG INTRODUCED

Introducing another new high school song in the contest to find a permanent song, the advisory group of Miss Dorothy Kropf gave a drill and led the singing at the senior assembly period Friday morning. During the latter part of the period a "pep" meeting for the Monroe-Janesville football game Saturday was held, with John Grose, assistant coach, as the speaker. He urged all students to attend games, and spoke of the effect which a crowd of rooters has on a team. The weekly "Blue J" was sold at the conclusion of the exercises.

2,100 MILES TRAVELED IN TEST DRIVE

Motor Sales company had covered 2,117 miles on 69½ gallons of gasoline for the first 72 hours of its 100-hour endurance run, it was announced Friday morning. So far three quarts of oil have been used, or a quart to every 706 miles. The test will end at noon Saturday. The car is in constant operation, stopping only to change drivers every eight hours or to take on gas, oil or water. A car from Maquoketa, Ia., on a similar run, passed through Janesville on Thursday.

PARK ASSOCIATION HONORS C. S. PUTNAM

Charles S. Putnam, for years in the furniture business here, who has been ill for some time, was able to sit up Thursday. The flowers, roses, were sent by John Soulman, Frank Cronk, J. P. Little, John McCann, Archie Reid, Ed. Duthie, Oscar N. Nelson, and J. A. Craig.

NORMAL BUILDING PROGRAM URGED

Resumption of Construction Will Be Put Up to Legislature.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Madison—Resumption of the building program for the nine state normal schools will be recommended to the next legislature as result of action by the state normal board of regents here yesterday, it was announced today by William Kittle, secretary of the normal board. The regents voted to recommend a building program aggregating slightly less than $1,000,000 for the next two years.

New buildings were voted for River Falls, Oshkosh and Stevens Point, it was stated, and an appropriation of $66,000 recommended for completion of the gymnasium at Superior Normal. The new buildings recommended for the three normals are training school structures which will cost between $250,000 and $300,000 each, officials said.

Little Construction.

With the exception of an addition to the Whitewater normal during the past year, no building program has been undertaken at the normal schools since 1913, according to P. W. Ramer, president of the normal regents. The 1913 legislature authorized six new buildings.

"There has been virtually no building program at the normal schools, despite the fact that the enrollment of the schools has increased approximately 2,000 since the last buildings were authorized," Mr. Ramer stated. "The normal schools are in dire need of buildings and the normal board has recommended for construction during the coming two years only what it deemed absolutely necessary.

A budget for the biennium 1925-27, for the nine state normal schools, totalling approximately $5,200,000 was voted by the state board of normal regents last night. The budget is approximately the same as recommended two years ago.

As recommended, the appropriations are about equally divided between the two years, $2,600,000 annually.

Final figures on the recommendations will not be known for several days, Secretary Kittle said. Each normal school is classified under 50 items for each year, making a total of approximately 900 items considered and recommended by the board.

Brown Co. Author of Study Article

W. W. Brown, principal of Janesville high school, is joint author, with J. E. Worthington, of the Waukesha high school, of an article on "Supervised Study in Wisconsin High Schools" appearing in the October issue of "The School Review," foremost journal of secondary education. The publication is by the University of Chicago.

The study deals with the relative efficiency of the recitation system and supervised study plan. High schools selected to make the test at the 1922 meeting of the Southern Wisconsin Teachers' association were West Allis, Waukesha, Watertown, Jefferson, Beloit, Stoughton and Janesville. Only four of the schools sent in the necessary data, however.

The supervised study plan is a new development along educational lines, the teacher working with the pupils during the usual recitation hour. A good share of the time is occupied with study under the direct supervision of the teacher, and the remainder to discussions. The article details the advantages and disadvantages of the new system as seen by high school principals, teachers of experimental classes and pupils in the classes.

To Speak at Church — Ernest L. Moggo, Long Beach, Cal., a prominent member of the Presbyterian church in his home state, will speak at the local church at the Sunday morning services.

"Unrest"

One of the curiosities of the passage of years is the use of the word "unrest" in reference to mass conditions, as though it were something new and a Columbus had suddenly heard a sailor call from the mast top, "Land Ho!"

Most everything that is new is old. That sounds like a paradox but it is a provable statement. For a thousand years or more we have been able to hear mysterious sounds in the air, indistinguishable, disconcerting voices as though speaking from nowhere. In the same ignorance that caused the tiger-toothed cave man to squirm on the ground when the sun set each night, in hope that his groveling would propitiate the gods so that the daylight would come again, these sound phenomena have been attributed to either the devil or magic. Nowadays we have these sounds boxed up and with a couple of car pieces call the thing radio.

If you have ever watched a lithe-bodied panther, or a jaguar, which is even more restless and treacherous, moving with sinuous grace, everlastingly, from one end of the circus cage to the other, you will see humanity typified in its unrest, from the very beginning of time. Except for the cuneiform and hieroglyphic writings on monuments left by the ancients, we have only the biblical chronicles of the Israelites, to tell us of national movements in the earlier ages of human ambition. If there ever was a restless world it was in that early period. What we have these modern if not degenerate days, is not unrest at all, compared with what had happened from B. C. down through all the ages of feudal strife and racial and national movements. Nobody was ever satisfied, and if he should for a moment so far forget himself as to be content, there was always someone with a spear or a sword to come merrily along and remove the satisfied man from the earth and take his accumulated surplus and unpaid dividends.

All one has to do is to read Rollin's ancient history or any history of the middle ages, the story of the Vikings and Huns and anything else that tells about early racial movements and immigration of peoples. Dungeons were provided for the most flagrant example of unrest and if that should be ineffective, the head was quietly removed from the restless.

Unrest made the United States, settled the colonies, thrust the adventurer into undiscoverable wildernesses and built a nation—no, not one nation, but a hundred in the new American continent. When later, the Yankee or the Southerner, tiring of the humdrum of civilization, got the bug of unrest in his system, he packed a few necessities like a slab of Johnny cake, a chunk of lead and a few pounds of powder in his kit bag, and started to get relief "Out West." He did not ask congress to do it—just let his own moccasined feet be his guide.

What we call unrest now is about the same. We have fewer outlets for that age-old spirit. It is the spirit of the boy who has to be doing something. It is the spirit that has accomplished things. "Unrest" is not a disease; it is not merely an incident of the times; a constitutional, continuous attribute of the animal, and man is its most notable exponent. Laws will not lessen it, statutes have not changed it, societies for amelioration have been as ineffective as a straw drill boring a hole in manganese.

To try and cure unrest by legislation, is foolish and a waste of time. If it should ever be removed we shall have a race of men and women who have no motivation either physical or mental. We have some who are good examples but they are found in our excellent asylums for idiots, and in those cases where paralysis is complete.

When Tamerlane found his people were getting restless he went out with an army and slew a few thousand peaceful neighbors. We simply buy an automatic of a pawn broker and increase the murder record. For several centuries China has been one nation where unrest was least evident unless we except the Piute and the Digger Indians prior to the introduction of pants, hot bread, hair tonic and bootleg liquor.

We will have arrived at a time when every political speaker has a few lines about "unrest." He then attempts to disclose to an audience his magic panacea for such a mental and physical condition. He fails utterly. There is nothing political about unrest. It is congenital. So long as the United States of America shall progress and we get on better and better, we shall have unrest. It is the electrical juice, that, furnished by the human dynamo, makes a better world in which to live or a faster one in which to die. But we shall always have it and it is not going to be cured by binding it in cheap sheepskin under the head of "Chapter I, section 999, Authorized by act of Congress," or by some unthinking legislature.

There is no room for the cyclone with 10,000 orators on the political stump.

And Always Pay Day Comes

Always a pay day comes when a state, a nation, or an individual borrows. When it does come there is pause and stock is taken as to what the benefits have been. Five years ago the state of North Dakota entered upon the utopian scheme of government ownership and government administration of stores, yards, banks, elevators and mills. The state board of equalization of North Dakota is levying a million dollars of taxes to pay interest and principal on bonds for these dead or dying enterprises. It was a grand day when the bill was signed by the governor, Frazier, now the present senator from North Dakota. It was a great adventure. It was hailed all over the nation as a settlement of the economic difficulties of a state's people. They had had enough to contend with, to be sure. They had been up against marketing troubles and elevator combines and a struggle to handle the grain crop. They had listened to the plans of half-baked wizards of finance who have now put the state in the hole with a new and heavier burden of taxation in order to meet pay day.

There have been no earnings from any of these state industries. The Home Builders' association L. dead and buried, and the taxpayers are still meeting some $300,000 undertaker's expenses, according to the Fargo Forum. The Drake mill is gone, but the bill still unpaid. The mill and elevator at Crunk Forks is still struggling along at a loss of about $2,000 daily, and the Bank of North Dakota is doing its best to make both ends meet, but the outgoing end is so far awhy that it cannot be done.

Bank of North Dakota bonds to the extent of $1,000,000 fall due in 1929, and $200,000 must be levied for the principal on the bonds and $100,000 to meet interest payments next year. That is a yearly levy for five years.

Mill operating bonds to the extent of $500,000 mature in 1928 and 1929, and $100,000 must be levied to meet this. That, too, is a yearly levy for five years. A tax levy of $172,000 must be made, also, to pay interest on $2,000,000 construction bonds.

It is always that way—in the end the people pay. We have clearly demonstrated that theory may be one thing and actual practice another. In North Dakota there are still those who want a greater program of state ownership and state bonds eventually to be followed by more taxes and still more interest charges. In Wisconsin, Governor Blaine once said he stood with both feet on that nonpartisan platform. But we killed off that scheme under that name in the state with the election four years ago. It lives in the Blaine platform of this year, camouflaged, but still there. We may take a lesson from North Dakota where its Ladds and Frazlers are still running on platforms of the Third Party, explaining what happened.

THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT

XIII—The Patent Office

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

This is a consideration of special interest because formerly labor was violently opposed to the introduction of labor-saving machinery. While in this country the opposition did not take such a flagrant form, the introduction of such machinery in England, much of it based on American patents, caused general riots in centers of working population. The workmen argued that when a machine was invented that would enable one man to do the work of ten, that machine would put nine men out of work and keep wages down. The contrary has been the case. More workmen have found employment than ever before at wages which have multiplied with the advance of patented machines. At the same time the labor-saving machinery gives the working man the goods he requires for his own use at relatively lower cost.

More patents have been issued for inventions relating to transportation than in any other line of human activity. These inventions have resulted in a great saving to the people and have made possible a civilization which could never have come into existence but for them. In the early history of the country it was no unusual thing to pay from 20 to 30 cents per ton per mile for the transportation of freight. Today the average ton-mile railway cost is a little more than 1 cent.

In no other realm have the labors of the American inventor and the fostering care of the patent office served a better purpose than in the development of the apparatus with which the farmer produces the things that men eat and the raw material from which they make their clothing. Without the farm machinery which the United States has given to the world, mankind would still be a race of small farmers. No great cities would exist as they do now and a thousand arts and sciences would be unknown.

The development of agricultural machinery has so enhanced the productive power of the individual farmer that more than three-fourths of those who formerly obtained their living by tilling the soil may now find profitable employment in other vocations.

It requires 120 years for the patent office to issue its first million patents, the millionth one having been issued on August 8, 1911. At the rate patents are being issued today the next million will be granted in less than 10 years.

XIV—The Department of Agriculture

The Department of Agriculture is essentially the farmer's branch of the federal government, for much of its work in years past has been devoted to finding new and better methods of producing crops, to developing improved plants and livestock, to working out measures for protecting crops from diseases and pests, and to similar problems. But today greater effort is being directed to the business side of farming. This does not mean that production problems are being neglected, but that the department's work does not cease when the farmer's crop is raised. There are problems of marketing, distribution, crop estimating, transportation, production costs, domestic demand, foreign demand and competition, which must receive attention.

The department had its origin in the farsighted wisdom of George Washington who, in 1792, wanted congress to do something about establishing a department to promote agriculture. Congress never actually got to the point of establishing a department of agriculture until 1862, although in an unorganized way the work dates back practically to the beginning of the government. In that early day most of the work fell upon the shoulders of a single individual, the commissioner. In a general way its present magnitude can be indicated by the mere statement that nearly 20,000 people are employed.

Specialists of the bureau of plant industry investigate the causes of plant diseases and find methods by which they may be controlled or eradicated. For instance, there are the investigations which have resulted in almost the complete eradication of the destructive citrus canker disease in the gulf states where an investment of $400,000,000 was menaced. Then there is the development of practical methods of controlling the white pine blister rust, thus preserving a $200,000,000 asset; and the vigorous cooperative campaign to eradicate the barberry bush which spreads black stem rust of wheat. In some years this disease has taken a toll of 200,000,000 bushels from the wheat crop.

Millions of dollars have been saved the farmers in the campaigns to eradicate or control plant pests. A large number of major plant insects have come into this country from abroad and they do untold damage each year. Among these could be mentioned the gypsy moth, European corn borer, the boll weevil, and the Japanese beetle. The plant quarantine laws now make it possible to see that these undesirables are kept out, and not a single major pest has been brought in since the passage of the laws.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

CAREER

Let these mark my success: a friend
To share whate'er the fates may send;
A house where love and peace are blent
And eyes are bright with merriment;
A garden where the blossoms sway;
A tree 'neath which the children play;
And just a few long-treasure things
To which the memory fondly clings.

A winding path my feet have worn;
A neighborhood where none may scorn;
Tradesmen who gladly tell that I
Have at their counters come to buy;
Servants who'll whisper at the end
They looked upon me as their friend;
And none I've ever met to say
That once I led his feet astray.

Let these mark my success: a home
From which there is no wish to roam,
Honor—my years of toil to crown—
That brighter jewel than renown—
Respect of all men, high or low,
If only these be mine to know,
Though fame and fortune fail me here,
I shall rejoice in my career.

HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1924

This is read by astrologers as an uncertain and changeable day for Mercury veers from benefic to malefic aspect while Neptune is adverse.

Under this sway it may be most unfortunate to enter into any sort of written agreement, for regret will probably follow the signing of contracts.

During this planetary rule there may be much to inspire confidence and then to disappoint and for this reason it is wise to defer important decisions of every sort.

Newspaper sensations appear to be indicated and scandals may be uncovered at this time which have a far-reaching effect.

There is a sign making for instability of opinion regarding public affairs and frequent rises and declines in popular favor for men in public life.

Mild and calm weather may be looked for until late in the month when unexpected storms of unusual violence may take place.

The partial eclipse of the Sun of August 30, which was read as presaging the death of a ruler and to foreshadow a great calamity will be remembered within the week, if the seers are to be believed.

Neptune rising and Mars setting indicate sedition among the people of this country. Internal difficulties are prophesied and there may be clashes that are serious.

Earthquake shocks in the central states again are prognosticated and accidents of a curious character may be expected.

Bitter discussion over religious and educational issues will be numerous even after the election, it is foretold, for a holy war is predicted.

Great waste of public money in Great Britain will be charged to the government, which will face big problems.

Railway transportation will show good returns at this time, if indications are rightly interpreted.

Many marriages of note will take place before the new year, which is to be eventful and memorable in a special way.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have perplexities due to legal papers, but the year should be fairly fortunate.

Children born on this day may be rather difficult to rear, but they should be able to win the best things in life.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author.

HEAT, HEALTH AND HUMIDITY

Before you start the furnace be sure to clean out the flue and see that there is no leak in the chimney pipe. But although these precautions are important, to insure a good draft and no escape of carbon monoxide or other products of combustion into the air of the house, it is also important from the hygienic point of view to clear your mind of some old and erratic notions about household heating.

A common question is the relative hygienic value of the different methods of heating—stove, hot air furnace, steam, hot water. The efficiency, economy or adaptability of these methods vary with the size and arrangement of the dwelling to be heated, and there is little choice between them, from the hygienic viewpoint. Perhaps the stove—no matter whether the fuel be coal, wood, oil or gas—is best, provided, of course, that it has proper connection with the flue. Next, in my judgment, comes the hot air furnace, and I place that second because it is most satisfactory when fairly free ventilation of the dwelling is maintained, whereas hot water or steam heating rather favors poor ventilation by functioning fairly well even when the ventilation is far from the hygienic standard. Electric heaters are practically the same, as far as hygienic aspects are concerned, as the hot water or steam radiator. Of course the electric heater requires no flue connection, since it doesn't burn anything.

The common error, which I fear is pretty deeply rooted, is that it is necessary to heat living rooms to a temperature of from 74 to 78 degrees, and often even higher. This is a most unwholesome temperature. It is several degrees higher than the ideal temperature of a perfect autumn day. It is very easy to accustom the body, at least to a certain extent, to such an extremely warm climate, so that the natural or normal temperature will feel a little chilly, and this is the misfortune of thousands of semi-invalids and enfeebled folk—they become softened under the hot house environment and actually feel uncomfortable under normal environment.

The right household temperature is between 64 and 65 degrees Fahrenheit. If you start in the autumn with this standard and stick to it for a month or two, you'll find that all hands will learn to like it before the winter is over. And when you keep the household temperature within these normal bounds you are living in a healthful atmosphere. Elderly or feeble members of the family should use heavier or warmer clothing if necessary; it is far better for them to keep warm that way and have the benefit of the proper atmospheric condition for breathing. It is a common mistake, of women particularly, to dress very lightly and overheat the house in the endeavor to keep warm. The less clothing anybody can wear at any time, with due regard to comfort, the better for health. But heavier clothing, or rather warmer clothing, is certainly more healthful than overheated atmosphere.

I haven't referred to humidity, you see. It is of no importance. If you keep the household temperature within the hygienic limit, the humidity will take care of itself. If you overheat in the popular fashion, nothing under the sun will maintain the proper humidity. The excessive dryness of overheated air is one factor which accounts for the undue sensitiveness of the body to chilliness. The relatively greater humidity of the air kept between 64 and 65 degrees conduces to greater comfort.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Remedy for Singers and Speakers.

What is the remedy you prescribe for singers and speakers? (R. J. H.)

Answer—for a good many of them a heavy dose of lockjaw toxin. If you refer to a gargle I recommended to prevent hoarseness of the voice. I dare not try to print it for fear the printers would change it into a hot mustard foot bath or something. Send a stamped addressed envelope for the recipe for the gargle.

Lump to Worry About.

I have a hard lump the size of an egg in the right breast. It has been there four years, since the breast caked when my baby was born. The lump has never bothered me until this last year, when it gets very sore very few weeks. Could it cause a cancer? Should I consult a physician about it? (W. F.)

Answer—Yes, have the advice of your physician—that is much better than worrying and letting it go.

Lime in Water.

Is there ground in medical experience for the supposition that the drinking of water with a heavy content of lime injures the stomach or affects the arteries or otherwise injures health? (T. T. M.)

Answer—No. On the contrary, there is some ground to believe that a very hard water, if it tastes satisfactory, may help to supply the body with the needed calcium ration—many urban dwellers get insufficient calcium in their diet.

What Adenoids Are.

Kindly tell me what adenoids are. Can one have them removed without taking an anesthetic? How long does one have to stay after the operation? (S. J.)

Answer—Enlargement of the pharyngeal tonsil, a mass of round cell tissue like that of the tonsils, situated in the vault or roof of the pharynx (throat cavity) behind the soft palate, is called adenoids. Many children and adults have adenoids removed without taking an anesthetic. Usually the patients remains a day after the operation.

Q. Has the plan to have the statue of Hermes tour the United States been finally abandoned? G. H. S.

A. The friendly offer made by Greece to lend this statue to the United States was not accepted. The figure is carved from Parian marble which becomes brittle with age, and museum experts in this country regarded the danger of injury as too great. The statue is by Praxiteles and ranks as one of the most valuable works of art in existence.

Q. I have been told that goldenrod is not dangerous to hay fever victims. Is this true? L. O. S.

A. Goldenrod is unjustly blamed as a main cause of hay fever. The plants most troublesome to hay fever victims are those which have pollens so light as to be easily scattered by the wind. Some of these trouble-making pollens travel several miles in the air. Goldenrod is so heavy that it is rarely blown even a few feet. Consequently, fairly close contact with goldenrod is necessary if it is to irritate the nasal passages of a susceptible person.

Q. What percentage of American women are really fat? A. A.

A. We know of no complete statistics on this subject. It is reported that clothing manufacturers classify 45 per cent of the American women as "stout."

Q. What method of capital punishment is most widely used in this country? B. L. F.

A. In the majority of the states hanging is the method of capital punishment. In 15 states electrocution is used, in one the criminal is given the choice of shooting or hanging, and in Nevada gas is administered in a lethal chamber.

Q. Please name several historic gardens in New England. A. G.

A. Among the historic gardens of this section are the Longfellow garden at Cambridge, Mass.; the Peabody garden at Salem, Mass., and the Wendell garden at Portsmouth, N. H.

Some folks are mighty lavish when it comes t' givin' advice, or three cheers, or spendin' a week, or lendin' an ear, but they never let loose o' any money. "Let me see, I used t' know that when I went t' school," says most any father when his little boy asks him who Christopher Columbus was.

Some of the most sensational murders ever committed in Rock county were the result of hoarded money—thieves heard of it, and to get it had to take the lives of those who protected it.

On the other hand, thousands of families have been helped over a serious illness, an accident, or a severe loss, by what they had laid by in an interest-bearing savings account.

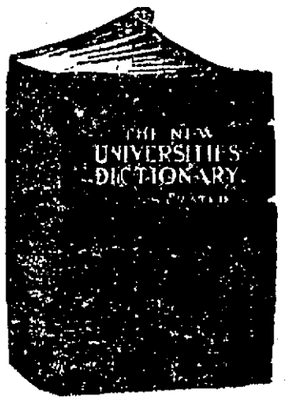

The old method of saving is too often a curse; there is no reason why you should follow it. Never a cent of savings has EVER been lost in a Trust Company of Wisconsin. Start that account tomorrow.

The Able McLaughlins

By MARGARET WILSON
(Copyright Harper & Bro.)

"Naturally!" remarked Mr. Knight, looking again with a smile, at Christie.

"Oh, I didn't know her then! If I had known her I'd have started home crawling! Have you got those grays yet?" asked Wully, suddenly curious.

"No, I haven't." The man smiled reminiscently. "I wish I had, sometimes. A Chicago man came along and wanted them. He was determined to have them. I let them go for a half section of land in Lyons County. I wouldn't have done it," he added confidently, "only my son had a baby born a day or two before that. I thought the land would be a good thing to keep for the child. How old is this little fellow?" He snapped his finger invitingly towards the child.

"Oh, he's—a year or two. Something like that, isn't he?" he asked his wife.

"Tut, tut, McLaughlin! You need experience! When they're young like that the women count them in months. Don't they, Mrs. McLaughlin?" he appealed.

"How old is your grandchild?" Wully parried boldly.

"Oh, mine's serveral months. Mine's—well he's got two teeth already!" and they laughed. Wully hastened to safer ground. If he wasn't careful, someone might ask him when he was married.

"I'll tell you another thing I remember!" he began. "I got in on that night train, that time, you know, and I went to the hotel where we had always stayed. Sick, I was, you know! I told the man—he'd seen me a dozen times before—that I hadn't the price of a room. He'd had too much. He never even looked to see who I was. Just saw my uniform and began swearing: Wasn't going to be eaten out of house and home by a lot of begging soldiers, he said. It nearly knocked me over. I went out to the street. And I couldn't get up face enough to go some place else and ask for a bed, at first. I just sat around. Then finally I went into the Great West—that's where we all stay now when we come in. And Pierson there almost began swearing at me because I said I'd pay him later. He didn't take soldiers' last cent away from them, he said. He saw how I felt, and he went and got some milk toast made for me. And soft boiled eggs. And then, do you know what he did? He went to a room with me, and when he saw the pillows on the bed, he went and got me a pair of good pillows from some place. I hadn't slept on a pillow for I don't know how long! A man notices those things when he's most dead, I tell you! Milk toast, and pillows, by Jiminy! And in the morning he sat and fed me such a lot of breakfast—no wonder I had trouble! I felt as if I'd never get enough to eat."

Mr. Knight made him go on talking. They sat there till the street was dark. And then Wully led his wife away, right up to the hotel. And then into the dining room. It seemed lordly to her that dining room—an amazing day—and Wully most lordly and amazing of all. It was like a fine wedding trip, almost, that day.

CHAPTER XXI

They had breakfasted together before daylight, and he had gone to load the lumber he was taking home for his father, so that they might have a very early start. In the noisy, untidy hotel office she sat watching in surprise the confusion and the stir. There were crowds of women waiting near her, women like herself waiting for wagons to take them on towards the west, women with bundles and babies, and quarreling, crying young children. Christie's face showed how exciting the scene was to her. She looked from group to group. She considered a foreign woman with a handkerchief tied on her head, whose tiny baby coughed and wheezed distressingly. She longed to say something sympathetic to the stolid mother. But she was too shy. Between caring for her own vigorous son, and watching other women's children, the hour hurried by. Presently she saw her husband drive up, and get out to tie his horses. But before he had started for the hotel door, a stranger accosted him, and with the stranger Wully turned and went down the street. So she waited on. Two sets of youngsters quarreling drew their mothers into the fray, and Christie shrank away from their roughness, thoroughly shocked.

Then, before she had expected him, Wully was standing over her, reaching down for the baby. She scarcely knew him. His face was white. His eyes were shining strangely.

"What ails you?" she cried. "You're sick, Wully! What's the matter?"

"I'm all right!" he said sharply. His voice quivered with feeling. He couldn't trust himself to speak. His mouth was set in a hard line.

She rose and followed him frightened. She got into the wagon, and he handed her the baby. He climbed up beside her, and they were off. She saw he couldn't tell her what had happened just there. She could wait—a little. They were almost out of town now.

"Wully, what's the matter? Are you sick?"

"I'm all right!"

She was more anxious than ever. She waited till the baby was asleep in her arms, and then she laid him carefully down in the little box in which Isobel McLaughlin had taken her babies back and forth to town. Then she turned towards her husband with determination. And hesitated. He looked too stern—too fierce. She sat undecided, wretched, glancing quickly at him and then away. After a few perplexed moments, her face darkened with terror.

"Oh, I know! You're—you've seen him! You were like that on the Fourth!"

He turned toward her, trying to speak.

"Yes!" he broke forth. "I saw him dying."

"Oh, dying!" She tried to realize it. "Oh, if he's dying, then we'll be happy again!"

He said nothing. His lips worked.

"I won't have to be afraid now!" She spoke like one overcome by a great fortune. He had never imagined she had been as unhappy as that cry of hers indicated by its relief.

"Dying!" she repeated, tasting the sweetness of the word. Then, suddenly:

WOMEN WHO LOOK OLD

In many cases they are not old in years, but because they are overworked, over-tired, nervous and rundown, ailments have developed peculiar to their sex and this condition makes them look years older than they actually are. Such women should consider the remarkable record held by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a recent canvass among over one hundred and twenty-one thousand women who had used it, ninety-eight out of every one hundred women reported benefit from its use.

Celery Soup—Cut celery in half-inch pieces and boil in salted water until very soft. Add milk and a lump of butter. Celery that has been wilted or left over may be used to advantage.

Eggs with Corn and Pepper—Cut cooked corn from cob, and one-half cup chopped green pepper. Let simmer in butter for a few minutes. Add to this two beaten eggs, one tablespoon milk. Scramble the mixture.

Brisket of Beef—Two or three pounds brisket, one pound navy beans, one-half teaspoon mustard, one-half cup brown sugar, one-half cup maple syrup, salt and pepper. Soak beans in water over night. Drain. Put in iron kettle with sugar, mustard, syrup, salt and pepper. Place meat on top of this. Cover with water. Bake in oven three hours, adding hot water when necessary.

Vichy Carrots—Carrots, two tablespoons butter, one tablespoon onion, three-quarter teaspoon sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper, one and one-half teaspoons chopped parsley. Scrape carrots, cut in thin round slices and let stand for 30 minutes in cold water. Melt butter, add onion and fry slightly. Add carrots, salt, pepper and water, covering about half. Place a lid on it, covering it closely; cook in slow oven, adding water occasionally. When nearly tender add parsley and cook a while longer, or until the mixture is almost dry.

Prune Slices—One cup sour cream, one cup sugar, one egg, one-half teaspoon soda, one teaspoon baking powder, flour, prunes. Mix well and roll thin. Spread with chopped prunes; double it over and roll again. Cut in squares and bake in hot oven.

Combination Salad—Shave cabbage very fine, add small green pepper. If you have a lettuce heet on hand, add it diced. Serve with mayonnaise and a tablespoon of chili sauce.

In doing your family marketing do not buy unnecessary things. Most American women need to learn to practice "penny buying" as the women in Europe do. There is always the lure of the bargain counter in kitchen as in other buying, and while it is a good thing to buy keepable things in quantity, it is not good policy to buy things you do not need just because you can get them cheap. Young housekeepers especially are apt to spend money for things when they already have other things on hand that would answer just as well. Why buy balls of twine, for instance, when you might have plenty for your purposes if you had saved the string that came about the packages you bought?

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred is happy to advise all mothers about the care of their children of any age, or on any subject which does not belong in the field of the doctor.

TEETH

This isn't to be all about infant teething exactly but about the teeth of older children.

First, of all, children get their teeth about this time schedule: Six teeth at one year, 12 at 18 months, 16 at two years, and the full early set of 20 at between two and three years.

Children do not inherit poor teeth; what they are subject to are the defect ical faults of the family, and if they are born into a family which habitually eat the wrong things and have no knowledge of the proper diet, it is more than likely that they will inherit that family's poor teeth. The mother's diet during pregnancy and during lactation are the real actuating factors of poor teeth for the baby.

Now for the older children. When the child's teeth begin to appear it is a sign that he needs more solid food. That doesn't mean if your four months baby has a tooth that he needs a meal of beefsteak, but teeth are designed for use, and a hard crust of toast for the seven months babe to nibble on and exercise his new possessions is sensible and serves for more than food.

For the first year all vegetables and cereals should be strained, and the baby can develop his teeth on hard breads. He will naturally be wanting to gnaw on most everything and you can provide him with a ring of hard white rubber which can be kept scrupulously clean and in some way attached to his bed or himself so that he can't possibly allow it to fall on the floor, which, however clean it may look, is far from being so.

After 16 months, if the child is healthy and has a good digestion, cereals and vegetables need not be served.

For the older child there should be no effort to keep his foods soft. Hard, strong teeth are developed by the exercise of chewing, providing the diet is right too. The pressure of biting and chewing stirs up the circulation around the teeth and keeps them healthy.

The six-year molars are permanent teeth and the mother needs to remember this and to watch the decay in them and have them treated promptly. Their loss is a serious one as they are the keystone teeth of the jaw and without them future teeth are liable to come in crooked and misplaced. They are the very back teeth of the first set and correspond in position to the later wisdom teeth.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

UNHAPPY AT HOME

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl in my middle teens and I think I am in love with a fellow three years my senior. I am not treated as my parents' child. They hate me around and make me "shut up" if I say anything to defend myself from the rest of the children. This young man wants me to marry him. I have gone with him for a year and three months steady. Do you think he cares for me? He does not go with any other girl and has quit drinking since I have been going with him. I would like to have your advice about getting married. We are planning on doing it secretly. BROWN EYES.

If you think you love the young man, you have not reason enough to love him before taking such a step. When a girl marries merely because she is unhappy at home, 99 times out of 100 she is unhappy. If you marry without the consent of your parents they may have your marriage annuled since you are so yot

QUARRELSOME PARENTS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls, 13 and 14 years of age, and are attending high school. Our mother and father do not get along well. Father has always been a drunkard and mistreated mother and the children, of which there are six. Three of the older ones are married and away from home. Mother doesn't care for father, but puts off getting a divorce until we are out of school. The fact is we would rather she would get one as it is terrible living with father. Mother could get the farm because she did before when father was at his worst, but she deeded it back to him. She has other property which she could go to. Our elder sister told us she would help us persuade mother. Our sister has lived away from home about 12 years and she still has hideous dreams about father. She says we should not live any longer with father. Should we try to make our mother see her fault, if such it is? If so, how should we do it? THANK YOU.

Tell your mother that you would like to have her free from your father and that you don't want her to wait until you are out of school. If she holds back and feels she prefers to remain with him, or let him remain with her, as the case may be, do not interfere with her. She may love your father in spite of his great weakness and if that is the case it would really be cruel to influence her to do a thing which is contrary to the dictates of her heart.

WANDERING JEW—When a license has been obtained by statements that are false it is possible to have the marriage annuled. For instance, if minors marry without the consent of their parents, it is possible to have the marriage annuled. The fact that the couple has lived together means nothing if their marriage is illegal.

ROSE—It would be quite all right to invite the boy to the party. Under the circumstances I think it would be a nice thing for you to do.

FACE TREATMENTS

Most women spoil their complexions by too much treatment. This is quite as bad as not enough; indeed I think it worse, for a skin that is not used to good care responds instantly to treatment. If you have stretched the muscles of your face by too vigorous treatment, or clogged the skin by too lavish a use of ointments, you will have rather a hard time getting it into condition. I think that any course of treatment should begin with face steaming. The trouble is almost certain to be clogged pores. A course of steaming will free them from all impure or foreign matter leaving them free to carry out their natural function of throwing off waste matter from the body.

Steaming cleanses the pores

If the skin is very bad fill a large basin with boiling water, throw two thick bath towels over your head and bend over the basin for about 10 minutes. If the skin is dry or covered with blackheads or pimples, first smear it with a cleansing cream or sulphur ointment (the liniment only if there are pimples) and let this steam into the pores of the skin. Wash off with hot water, and end up by spraying the face with toilet water or some other astringent to close the pores.

This treatment is rather strenuous and should not be done oftener than every other day, and not kept up for more than three weeks. A better way of steaming is to wring an old small turkish towel out of hot water, hold it over the face until it begins to cool, wring it from hot water again and keep this up for 10 minutes. After that rub in your cream and give your face whatever treatment you contemplate and finish up by using cold water and astringents. The one thing to remember is to cleanse the pores.

G. F.—Any tonic in which there is oil will make the hair appear to be darker while you are using it, but this will not change its natural shade and it therefore will only be a temporary matter. If your scalp is dry and in need of oil, it would be advisable to put up with the change for a little while. I will be glad to send you the formulas for hair tonics with and without oil if you forward a self-addressed, stamped envelope for mailing. These cannot be printed at this time.

Patsy—All such sensitiveness will disappear in a short time.

Saturday—Mouth Troubles.

Don't try to hide skin trouble—

Get rid of it!

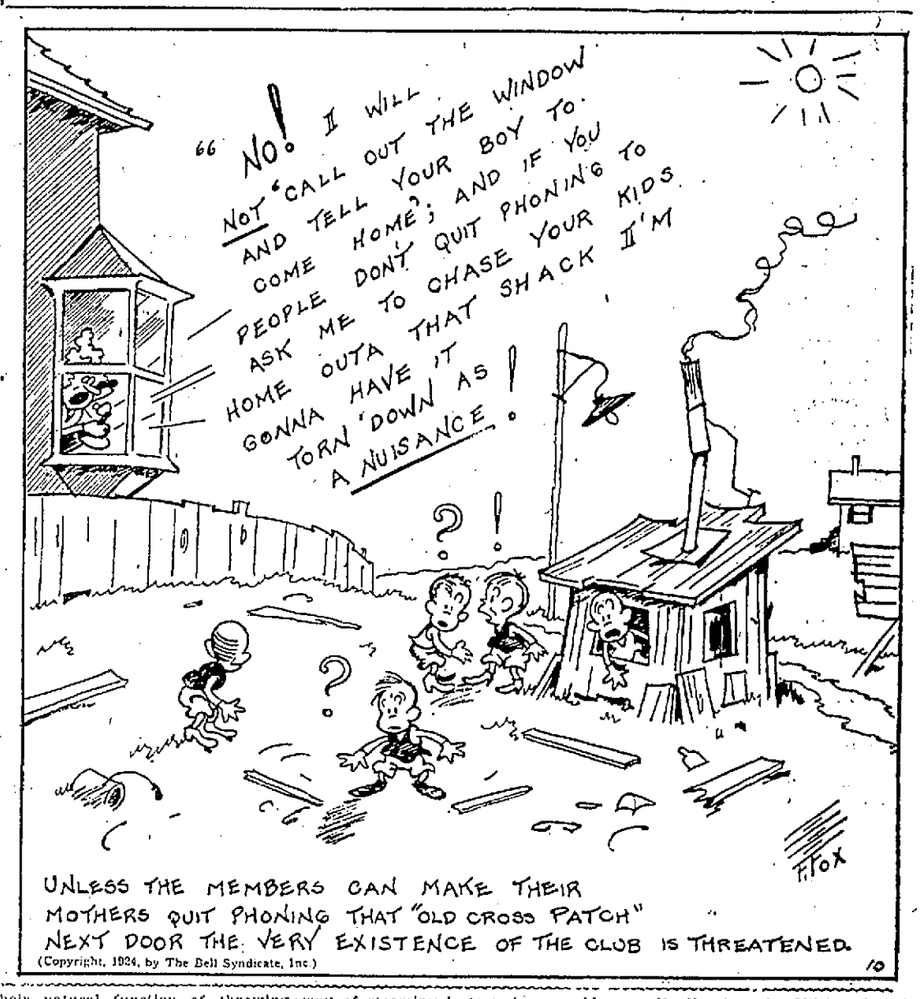

NO amount of cosmetics can conceal an ugly skin. They only fill in the pores and make the condition worse. Resinol Soap cleanses the pores, giving them a chance to breathe and throw off clogging impurities—the first step in overcoming skin defects.

A touch of Resinol Ointment for blotches and inflamed spots, relieves the soreness and reduces the angry look. The soothing, healing medication in the Resinol products makes it so easy to get rid of excessive oiliness, blackheads, blotches, redness, etc., why waste time trying to hide them.

12 YEARS CONSTANT SUFFERING GONE

Mrs. Tilkey Suffered Intense Agony For 12 Years Then Turned To Tanlac.

"Tanlac ended twelve years of almost constant suffering from stomach trouble for me, and I will praise it as long as I live, for had it not been for Tanlac I doubt that I would be alive today," declares Mrs. Frederick J. Tilkey, who resides at 1614 Oakes St., Marinette, Wisc.

"What I went through from both acute and chronic indigestion up to two years ago can hardly be described, cutting pains that almost shut off my breath and 'fits' often lasted for into the night were so severe that I often would walk the floor for hours. Even the strictest dieting seemed to help but little, and I was on the verge of despair.

"But here I am at the age of 72, enjoying the best of health, eating heartily of everything I like without any after troubles, all due to this wonderful medicine, Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

TODAY'S MARKET

GRAIN

Chicago Review.

Chicago—Increased official estimates of the 1924 yield of wheat in the United States led to lower price for wheat today during the early dealings. On the decline, however, demand broadened, and rallies took place. The opening ranged from 1¼c to 3c lower, with Dec. $1.47¾@1.47½ and May $1.51¼@1.52 was followed by an upturn of as much as two cents in some cases, compared with initial bottom figures.

Corn and oats shared weakness of wheat, notwithstanding that the government report as to corn was consued as bullish. After opening at ¾c to 2¼c lower, Dec. $1.11@1.12¼, the corn market recovered but kept below yesterday's finish.

Oats started at ¾c to 1¼c off, Dec. 54⅞@55¼c, sagged a little more and later reacted somewhat.

Provisions were irregular, lard averaging a trifle higher and meats lower.

FINANCE

Wall Street Review.

New York—Opening prices in today's stock market gave no indication of a definite trend, changes generally being unimportant.

American Water Works, General Electric, Gulf States Steel and New York Dock moved up one to two points and scores of others improved fractionally. Goodyear Tire preferred dropped a point and some of the tobaccos yielded slightly. Foreign exchanges opened firm.

The morning trading was of a preholiday character, with price changes indicating a readjustment of speculative accounts over the week-end. United States Steel sold up to 108¾ before noon. Call money again renewed at 2½ per cent.

WISCONSIN TOBACCO MARKET.

Edgerton—The Wisconsin Tobacco Reporter Friday says:

"The market has been rather quiet the past week, no transactions being reported. Inquiries by mail are reported fairly good, but the activity of the past few weeks seems to have subsided for a time. Sampling of the 1923 is in full swing and up to date reports as to the condition and quality of the goods are very favorable, being free from damage, promising some very desirable binder goods, although the quantity is limited.

"Splendid fall weather conditions still prevail, favoring the cure of the hanging crop, and prospects are that the entire crop will be cured sufficiently to withstand hard frosts when they come.

"No buying of the new crop has developed as yet and no movement in that direction seems to be expected, and while the crop is greatly below normal in both quantity and quality, there will undoubtedly be some very good tobacco. In former years no crop was too uncertain to keep buyers out of the field at this date, and even legislation aimed at field buying failed to stop this practice. Frequently the entire crop was gobbled up, practically, before the harvest. And this practice prevailed for years despite the many severe lessons and unsatisfactory outcome of such dealing. It is hoped that this new order will prevail indefinitely."

YOUNG PEOPLE IN MEETING AT BELOIT

Sixteen local young people of the Congregational church attended the banquet held for the younger members of the church Wednesday night in Beloit in connection with the association convention. Aside from the Madison and Beloit delegations, Janesville sent the most delegates to the meeting.

The convention closed Thursday night.

Grasp this opportunity to buy quality shoes from a shoe store that has always been a leader in Southern Wisconsin, at the ridiculously low prices that every pair in stock is going to be marked.

Books on History and Industry Are Added at Library

Books to suit the taste of all are included among the many non-fiction in the list added to the public library this week. Subjects ranging from Russian literature to antique furniture are treated.

Of special value are a series of three volumes on American history, government and industry, especially prepared for prospective citizens but of equal value to many who are already citizens. The first, under the title of "We and Our Government," is by Jeremiah Jenks and Rufus Daniel Smith, and explains the action of the various government departments and duties of public officials. "We and Our Work," by Joseph French Johnson, includes such topics as general civics and economics, early attempts at industrial activities, scientific achievement, financial progress, trade growth, and manufactures. The volume on "We and Our History," by Albert Bushnell Hart, takes up the usual history topics supplemented by treatment of the emigrant problem and an analysis of the constitution.

"Reproduction of Antique Furniture" covers a subject upon which there has been much inquiry, but little available material. The volume, well illustrated, explains period designs and has a chapter on wood finishing.

An entertaining autobiography is that of Maria Thompson Daviess, famous authoress, published under the title of "Seven Times Seven." Starting with her childhood in Kentucky, she tells of her life in the Latin quarter of Paris, her escapades in Rome and Venice, and her association with many well-knowns, among them the Empress Eugenie, Lee Shubert, Rodin, Irvin Cobb, Mary Austin, Don Marquis, Sarah Bernhardt, Phillips Brooks and Sam Jones.

A scientific analysis of religion in the light of social psychology is contained in "The Mystery of Religion," by Everett Dean Martin.

An exceptionally entertaining travel book this week is "The Lure of Monte Carlo," by Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Williamson, who for many years lived in and near that place. The book deals with the resort and its environs from every aspect. Physical beauties, man-made and natural, are described. Gaming table anecdotes, systems of play which have been tried and the results also make interesting reading. Photographs, maps and diagrams of play illustrate the text.

"Creative Chemistry," by Edwin E. Slosson, which it is claimed is written for the layman and assumes no previous knowledge of the science, and "Essays on Russian Novelists," by William Lyon Phelps, complete the new consignment of books for this week.

Amazon Spiders Eat Birds.

Explorers in the wilds of the Amazon are nowadays as much on the alert against the giant spiders as against jaguars. Several types of spiders large and cunning enough to catch and devour birds have been encountered. These made "trap doors" in the ground, beautifully camouflaged. When birds alight on these doors they fall into pits or tunnels in which the spiders watch for their prey.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR STATE BALLOT

Four Columns for Independent Candidates Necessary in Wisconsin.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Madison—With a settlement reached on the question of independent candidates for president on the November general election ballots, state officials today completed arrangements for certifying the ballot to county officials. The ballot, as completed, included four columns with independent presidential candidates.

The three columns were necessitated by the agreement of officials to certify the names of candidates of the workers' party of America, the socialist-labor party, and the commonwealth land party. The fourth column will include the names of Senator Robert M. La Follette and Burton K. Wheeler.

In addition to the four independent presidential columns, the republican, democratic and prohibition parties also will have columns on the presidential ticket, making it one of the largest ballots ever certified in Wisconsin.

A question also has been raised regarding independent columns on the state ticket. Although the ticket as certified by the secretary of state's office contains but one column for independent candidates, several county clerks have expressed the intention of printing these independent candidates for the various parties and groups in separate columns. It was stated today by Secretary of State Zimmerman that the state ballot is printed by the counties and as certified, is only a suggested form. Therefore, counties may include the candidates in separate columns if desired. These independent candidates for governor appear on the ballot. Virtually complete state tickets also appear for the socialist-labor and workers' party of America.

think for them," said the senator after being introduced by David Thorne, president of the Coolidge-Dawes club of Beloit. In the audience was a large number of Janesville people and several were on the stage, which was packed by women and men of Beloit and vicinity.

Senator Lenroot will make a few more speeches as his health permits.

Attacks La Follette.

Senator Lenroot attacked the La Follette-Wheeler ticket, labeled it as composed of "radicals" and declared that the proposed constitutional amendment regarding the supreme court as advocated by the independent presidential candidates "would give congress the power to abolish every parochial school in the nation," here last night.

Senator Lenroot said the candidacy of John W. Davis, democratic candidate has collapsed and that the real campaign is between Coolidge and Dawes and La Follette and Wheeler. The primary aim of the "radicals," he said, is not to elect La Follette and Wheeler, but to throw the election into congress and thus control the presidential selection. There is no chance that Mr. La Follette will be named president, the speaker stated.

Attack on Constitution.

"Perhaps the most dangerous of the radical issues is their attack on the constitution of the United States," the junior Wisconsin senator said. "It is proposed to amend the constitution so that if the supreme court decides an Act of Congress to be unconstitutional and congress again passes the act, it shall be valid and the law of the land. The effect of this would be to destroy the constitution for it would have no binding effect upon congress. The radicals, in effect, say that they are willing that the right of religious freedom, of free speech, of trial by jury and all other rights guaranteed by the constitution, shall be placed in the hands of a so-called Wall street congress, with power to destroy them.

Refers to Western Cases.

"I hope that I shall never live to see the day when congress shall have the power to deny to any man the right to worship God according to the dictates of his conscience, to deny to any man the right to hold an office because he is a Catholic, a Jew or a Protestant. The radicals favor giving congress the power to abolish every parochial school in the nation."

Mr. Lenroot referred to the law passed in Oregon seeking to abolish parochial schools and a similar one in Nebraska. He said both were held unconstitutional by the courts. He also referred to the Bennett law in Wisconsin.

Reduction in expenses of the federal government was declared by Mr. Lenroot to have been the greatest accomplishment of the Coolidge administration.

Wallops Blaine Record.

Declaring that the federal taxes paid in Wisconsin for 1922 equaled $3.37 for every man, woman and child, he said the state and local taxes for the same period equaled $47.48, and thus referred to the state administration of Governor Blaine:

"I am glad the republican party has no responsibility for Governor Blaine's record for, while he is running on the republican ticket, he is not supporting the party or its nominee for president, and therefore the republicans of Wisconsin are in no wise responsible for his administration, or under any obligation to give him their support."

Lenroot attacked the proposal of Senator La Follette for government ownership of the railroads, declaring such action would greatly increase state taxes and bring little relief. He also expressed support of the Esch-Cummins law.

Praises Coolidge Record.

Speaking of the record of President Coolidge, Mr. Lenroot stated:

"Senator Brookhart said recently that he belongs to the farm bloc and that President Coolidge belongs to the Wall street bloc. If President Coolidge belongs to the Wall street bloc it has treated him very shabbily, for until he became president, he was as poor in this world's goods as I am. He has climbed from the bottom to the presidency, not through any power of oratory, for he has none; not through leading some great movement, for he has not; but because he possessed the homely virtues of the ideal American citizen, honesty, industry, character and fidelity to the people."

He concluded with a declaration of the record of the present national administration.

LEGION WILL BE HOST TO PRINCE ON CHICAGO VISIT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Chicago — The American Legion here will be host to the Prince of Wales at a reception Monday afternoon, if time for it can be inserted in the program of his visit here. The reception will be held either in the ball room of a hotel where the prince may stop for a short rest or at the Field Museum, which he will visit.

Immediately after his inspection of the stockyards here the prince will visit the University of Chicago, where he will have luncheon in Hutchinson Commons, where most of the students eat.

The visit to the Field Museum, where he will be shown about by Stanley Field, will follow the luncheon. Later Wales will rest a bit in a lake shore hotel, probably occupying the same suite used by Lloyd George, former British premier, when he visited Chicago last year.

Dinner Stories

Two Highland farmers met on their way to church and one said: "Man, I was wonderin' what ye will be askin' for yon bit sheep at your steadin'?"

"Mon," replied the other, "I was thinkin' I wad be wantin' 50 shillings for that sheep."

"I will take it at that," said the first, "but, oh, mon, I am awfu' surprised at you doin' business on the Sawbath."

"Business!" exclaimed the other. "Mon, sellin' a sheep like that for 50 shillin's is not business at all; it's jest charity."

Lord Dewar who provides privileged parts of the world with whiskey is also a widely known exporter of wit. One of the latest stories he tells about two old soldiers who were rather more famous for their devotion to the bottle than for their status as veterans. Upon saving enough capital they invested in a public house in England.

Their arrival was watched with interest by the community, and when opening time had long gone past, and the doors remained shut, one would-be customer volunteered to make inquiries.

Striding up to the door he banged loudly with his fist, and was rewarded by a head appearing at one of the bedroom windows.

"Watcher want?" inquired the old soldier.

"When are you going to open?"

"Open?" asked the man in astonishment. "We've bought it!"

WHETHER Washington wins or loses Friday, in the final game of the world series, fandom the country over has a feeling of sadness. Walter Johnson—Sir Walter—has had his chance at a world series after 18 years of noble work with a losing team, and his courage has been greater than his arm. Johnson has hurled two great games in the present fight for the championship of the world and each time he has seen victory slip from under his feet as Lady Luck ogled him but let the New York Giants have the better of the wooing. Johnson, though happy that his club is near the title, was a pitiful figure after Thursday's game. His swan song was sung by himself when he said: "I had two chances, but I couldn't come through and I may not play next year." With the knowledge that he was the most valuable player in the American league in 1924 and with the country giving him credit for having been a wholesome influence on American youth for almost two decades, Walter has earned the lasting admiration of the nation.

WASHINGTON put up another great fight on Thursday and displayed once again that marvelous spirit for which they have won fame this season. Peckinpaugh's presence in the lineup was a healthful aid in pulling the infield together, but he was hurt again. Friday sees the final contest, the most severe upon the players of all seven. It probably will see both teams going the limit in the use of pitchers and strategy to cop. With a whole winter ahead of them for recuperation, it is possible that some startling tricks will be pulled by the separate managers, for the goal is worthy of the attempt.

THE SERIES certainly has been a hot one. Only five times since the revival in 1903 of the world series on its present scale, have there been as many as seven games played for the world's pennant. Four times there have been eight games and once there were seven. The Boston Americans beat the Pittsburgh Nationals in 1903, five out of eight. The Boston Americans beat the Giants in 1912, four out of eight, with one game a draw. The Cincinnati Nationals beat the Chicago White Sox in 1919 (the year of the great scandal) five out of eight. The Cleveland Americans beat the Brooklyn Nationals in 1920, five out of seven. The New York Giants beat the New York Americans in 1921, five out of eight.

On the eve of the week-end football struggles, Western Conference teams Friday completed their heavy practice and light practice was the order for pre-game sessions Saturday.—Ohio State and Iowa, in the only game of the day between conference teams, were both prepared to launch strong running attacks, combined with the forward pass, which has been consistently practiced during the week.—Intersectional flavor was furnished by the engagements of Chicago with Brown at Chicago and Louisiana and Indiana at Indianapolis.—Chicago was determined to recoup the prestige lost by last week's defeat by Missouri, and Indiana relied on its showing with the Southerners to indicate its possibilities as a Big Ten title contender.—Northwestern was groomed for Cincinnati, which arrived in Chicago today and went through a limbering up on the purple field at Evanston.—Illinois faced the prospect of battling Butler with the loss of "Mush" Crawford, tackle, and Captain Rokusek, out because of injuries.—Purdue's lineup for Rose Poly was weakened by the absence of Pillman, end, and Don Monroe, casualty from scrimmage and the game last week with Ohio State.—Wisconsin was in fair shape to tackle Coe, although Sanger, 235 pound lineman, was out with an injury.—Scrimmage during the week crippled Minnesota's backfield, which was not definitely lined up by Coach Spaulding for the contest with the Haskell Indians.—Michigan, ready for the Michigan Aggies, was still in need of conditioning for the Illinois game next week, and Saturday's contest was expected to develop weak points which will be worked on during next week's practice.—Notre Dame concluded its rigid practice for Wabash, the last game before its heavy schedule of intersectional games.

Don Scott, St. Louis, won first western senior golf title, making 158 for low medal score in 36-hole play at St. Louis.

Milton Team Beaten, 17-7

De Kalb—The Northern Illinois State Teachers' college football team defeated Milton college of Wisconsin 17 to 7 here Thursday. The Milton line was weak and many attempted forward passes failed. Capt. Ball, right half for the teachers, made a touchdown after Cones had made a 30 yard run and Kujala, right end, made the second touchdown for De Kalb when he intercepted a forward pass.

Bingham, right tackle for Milton, scored the Wisconsin team's only touchdown in the last quarter when he intercepted a forward pass.

Peck, Zachary, Harris Heroes in Series Tie

Kid Hurlers Being Used Friday

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Washington—Its only a ball game, but when Washington and New York meet Friday in the seventh and deciding world series contest, the pulse of the nation will beat the balls and strikes.

President Coolidge set the pace for excited fandom, shelving his official duties Thursday to watch "his club." He arranged to do the same again Friday.

Playing like boys for the honor of their school, "Bucky" Harris and his lads Thursday roused the first fan, the first lady of the land, and 35,000 others to enthusiasm by coming home with a 2 to 1 victory over Arthur Nehf and the "gang" from Coogan's Bluff.

Recruits to Twirl.

The pitcher casualties have been so heavy upon both clubs the managers will be compelled to trust their fortunes to youths of virtually untried capacity Friday. "Curly" Ogden, who has not appeared in the series, will carry the Washington standard. From a swarm of uncertain hurlers, Manager McGraw probably will pick Young Virgil Barnes, blasted from the mound Tuesday.

If Ogden, a fast ball pitcher, is set upon by the Giants, greedy for that brand of delivery, Manager Harris may use Mogridge, a southpaw, who won Tuesday, and then "Firpo" Marberry, relief expert, who saved two of the Washington victories. McGraw will back Barnes with McQuillan, Watson and Ryan.

Peckinpaugh, Zachary, Rice and Harris joined Goslin and Mogridge as Senatorial candidates for hero honors Thursday.

The Sensational Plays.

"Old Tom" Zachary wafted southpaw floaters tauntingly before Giant bats, defeated Arthur Nehf in a splendid duel and won his second game of the series. Sam Rice made three sensational catches which held McGraw men off the sacks. "Bucky" Harris boldly waited at the plate until Nehf's eighth pitched ball suited his taste, whereupon he came through with one of the four Washington hits and drove in the tying and winning runs.

It remained for Roger Peckinpaugh, veteran Senator captain, who was out of the last three games with a "Charley horse" to dramatize.

"I'll play tomorrow if I break the leg," Peckinpaugh said after Wednesday's Giant victory had made a determined Senator stand compulsory. Roger played Thursday; his infield work returned the spectacular "Harris to Peck to Judge" double play and steadied the team. His hit in the fifth started the winning Washington rally; his stop in the ninth checked a final Giant threat.

Carried from Field

Then he was carried from the field. The final play on Kelly aggravated the Charley horse. Friday Roger will not play. Taylor, with an injured hand, will play third and Bluege will be shifted to short.

WHEN JOHNSON'S HOPES WERE DASHED

The failure of Walter Johnson to hurl his way to victory in the first and fifth games of the world's series must be set down as the tragedy of the series. This photo shows Johnson "playing the game out" in an effort to turn defeat into victory in the fifth game. Bill Terry, Giant first baseman, had tripled in the fourth inning. Wilson, next man up, hit to Johnson and the king headed off Terry, found for home. Third Baseman Miller took Johnson's toss and tagged Terry out. In the photo, Johnson, at left, has just thrown the ball (seen in mid-air) over Terry's head to Miller, at third.

Janesville high school is ready for its third football game of the season, meeting Monroe high at the fairgrounds here at 2:30 p. m. Saturday. The lineups, announced Friday by Coach Gibson, see several changes.

Though Monroe has not won a game this season, losing to Mineral Point and to Beloit, the presence of Donald Holcomb, 1923 star, in the backfield, strengthens their chances and they will come with fight.

The Blues went through signals Thursday night and practiced catching punts, passing by the backfield men to the ends and backs and the line worked on blocking and holds.

In punting and returning practice between the regulars and the seconds, the first team went down the field well under the punts and returned in good fashion. However, the regular kickoffs were not so good as expected and they were poor on kicking point after touchdown.

Admission Saturday will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

Blue Seconds Expect Victory Over Beloiters

Out at the fair grounds at 10:30 a. m., Saturday the high school second team will pry the lid off their football schedule. The Beloit high school seconds will furnish the opposition and from what can be learned, it will be plenty for the Blue lights. The visitors, while a good part of their team is unknown, are bringing along a few warriors whose names are quite familiar. Christopherson, Gharrity and others who are not playing with the first team this year, will be remembered as having caused the Janesville first team a lot of trouble last season.

The seconds have a real schedule, playing on successive Saturdays, until the end of the season, such teams as the Beloit seconds; the Delavan team who held the firsts to a tie two weeks ago; the Edgerton seconds; Harlem of Rockford firsts; Orangeville, (Ill.), firsts and the Clinton high first team, probably two games.

The Blue "All-Americans" are mostly boys who will be eligible for varsity competition next year and from the looks of things should be able to make things hum for the opposition next year for they have been giving the varsity about all they can handle every time they scrimmage.

Radcliffe and Walters are calling signals in the backfield with Langdon, Delaney, Sheridan, Brennan, Condon, and Donegan at the other back positions. At the ends five men are dividing the time—Tobin, Meyer, Ward, C. Walsh and Kelhofer; at tackles, seeman, R. J. Walsh, Folk and Sheehan; at guards Schmidley, Austin, Nichol and Pierson while Jarvis and Litney are the pivot men. These boys are confident they can take care of their heavier and more experienced Beloit gang and aim to start the days festivities with a win for the regulars to short at over Monroe in the afternoon.

Admission will be 10 cents and 20 cents.

Local "Y" Soccers Play in Rockford

The Janesville "Y" Orioles soccer team will play the Rockford schools at Rockford, 10 a. m., Saturday. The game was changed at the last minute from Janesville, Rockford being unable to come here. Janesville's lineup: Jerome Femal, goal; Lloyd Gillingham, right full; James Lyke, left full; John Broming, center half; Wallace Gestland, left half; Harry Reynolds, right half; Harold Sager, outside right; George Broming, inside left; Robert Jarvis, center forward; Maurice Jensen, insider right; Charles Hugill, outside right. Reserves: Hugh Blakely, Walter Lichtfuss, James Heifferman.

Femal Is Head Soccer League

At a representative meeting of the grade and parochial schools, officers of the new soccer league were elected as follows: Jerome Femal, Washington, president; James Walsh, St. Mary's, vice president; Ed. Olson, St. Mary's, secretary; Arthur Walsh, St. Mary's, treasurer. The captains and managers will form the board of control.

St. Patrick's play Douglas and Jefferson meets Grant, both of Fourth ward park, Monday, 4:15 p. m. Tuesday, Adams plays Washington and Garfield meets St. Mary's, at Fourth ward, 4:15 p. m.

It is hoped St. Pauls will enter a team.

St. Paul — Victorious over Baltimore in the fifth game of the junior world series Thursday, St. Paul prepared for Friday's contest with a determination to make it two straight and square the game honors at three wins each.

Pire Develops Leg Infection

Janesville's chances in the game against Lake Mills at Jefferson next Sunday have taken a slump during the last few days with the report of a physician that the right ankle of Lee Pire, captain and infielder, is infected. Pire was spiked during last Sunday's contest, the steel of a Lake player's shoe tearing deeply.

An examination of the injured member disclosed poison. The physician is worried lest the bone be bruised or a chord cut. Pire is at work daily, but he limps slightly. The leg is quite sore.

In the event Pire will be unable to play a new combination will be necessary.

Practice for the Boosters will be held at The Pines on Saturday afternoon. The line of play for Sunday's game will be worked out at that time.

Whitewater Works to Battle Fort

Whitewater — Although badly crippled, the Whitewater City high school is working hard this week in preparation for the tilt next Saturday with Fort Atkinson here. Coach Kulaske, realizing that he has a strong enemy in the Fort, is trying to strengthen his injuries to make something of a showing. The balance of the Whitewater schedule follows:

Oct. 18—Lake Mills at Lake Mills

McKaig Defeats Graham and Enters Net Finals

Sam McKaig again won the right to appear in the finals of the city men's singles tennis tournament, when he defeated George Graham, local high school teacher, in the semi-finals Thursday afternoon.

Playing on the Chevrolet court, they fought through three sets of good tennis, 6—3, 3—6, 6—4. They play an entirely different style of game, which accounts for the closeness of the battle.

McKaig will meet Don Bolles in the finals Saturday for the second time in two years. They will play on the Fifield-Kohler court, the match being three out of five sets. The winner will gain a leg on the Janesville Gazette tennis trophy, and permanent possession of a large cup. The runner up will also receive a cup.

E. O. E. bowlers bowl Friday night at 7 p. m. at East Side alleys. Frank Roach, Sec'y.

N. W. Cadets Open with Saint Albans

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Walworth—The opening game of the 1924 football season of the cadets of the Northwestern, Military and Naval academy will be played on the academy field at Lake Geneva next Saturday.

As has been the custom for several years, this first game will be played with the team from St. Albans academy, an Episcopal school from Sycamore, Ill.

The cadets will be handicapped to a certain extent on account of their short training season due to the late opening of school, but they feel confident that they will annex this first game.

Wisconsin in Stiff Work; Prep for Coe and Gophers

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Madison—Coach Jack Ryan Friday topped off preparations for the third start in the gridiron season Saturday with Coe college of Iowa. Ryan gave his men a stiff workout Friday, somewhat lighter than the long and hard scrimmage sessions which have been in order throughout the week at Camp Randall.

Ryans has given little attention to the Coe contest, making preparations all week for the Minnesota fray here next week. This has been taken as an indication that little fear is felt of the Iowans, since they dropped a game to a minor college last week. Reports come from the Badger opponents for Saturday indicate, however, the Coe team will average around 168 pounds per man and expects to put up a strong fight against the locals.

INHERITS ESTATE OF MAN HE SENT TO FIRING SQUAD

London—It has just become known that Kevin O'Higgins is the chief beneficiary of the will of Rory O'Connor, whose death warrant he signed.

All through the days of Sinn Fein war with England and the weeks of negotiating the Irish treaty there were no closer friends than Kevin O'Higgins and Rory O'Connor.

The treaty was accepted and Sinn Fein split. O'Higgins became home minister in the Free State cabinet; O'Connor elected to fight that cabinet, but still the two remained friends. O'Connor led those who held the Four Courts in Dublin against the Free State besiegers, but the friendship continued.

Finally O'Connor was captured. He was sentenced to death. The warrant for his execution came to the desk of the best friend he had in the world. All manner of pressure was brought to bear on O'Higgins but he replied; "He must die tomorrow," and closed his lips as he signed.

O'Higgins remained seated at that same desk all night, alone. At 8 a. m. messengers brought him word that his friend was dead. The home minister collapsed.

Some time later he learned that the dead rebel's will left his entire estate to the friend who had signed his death warrant.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

CITY TAXES WILL BE LOWER IN 1925

This Year's Budget of $593,000 Expected to Be Cut Several Thousand.

Basing his estimate on preliminary figures arranged for the 1925 budget, City Manager Henry Traxler is predicting another small decrease in the tax rate next year, despite the loss of nearly $1,000,000 on the 1924 assessment through homestead exemptions. While nothing definite on the 1925 budget is available as yet, it is predicted that it will be $25,000 to $30,000 less than that for this year, notwithstanding provision being made for the city's share of another paving program next year.

"If we wanted to sit quietly and not do any paving, sewer work or make any other improvements next year we could cut the budget much more," said Mr. Traxler.

The trend to lower city taxes began under city management last year when the 1924 budget was adopted, calling for a city levy of $593,810, or $40,000 less than the preceding year. With this slash, the tax rate for city purposes only was reduced $1.05 per thousand despite a loss of $500,000 on the assessed valuation.

There are the usual fixed charges to be considered in drawing up the budget for 1925. The school board will require approximately $218,000 or $8,000 less than this year, while the vocational school and library are expected to need about the same amount as for 1924, $15,000 and $10,000 respectively. The bonded indebtedness charge will be slightly less, although provision will have to be made for another payment on the four lots on South Main street purchasd for extension of the high school athletic field.

The 1925 budget is scheduled for adoption at the next regular meeting of the city council, Monday night.

KLAN ASSAULT CASE IN OCTOBER TERM

Lancaster—The October term of the Grant county district court will open next week and will include the case of George Shields, Boscobel night watchman, who is charged with assault growing out of a Ku Klux Klan parade at Boscobel in August, according to District Attorney G. P. Clementson. Doubt is expressed, however, if the case will be called for next week. Clementson was temporarily discharged by Governor Blaine as a result of a dispute over prosecutions resulting from the hooded parade.

1925 MODELS OF PUSSY WILLOWS ON THE MARKET

Automobile models are not the only thing that come a year in advance, avers the Rev. Henry Willmann, Janesville's foremost authority on nature study, who plucked beautiful pussywillow, found near Hanover.

"There's the 1925 crop," said Mr. Willmann, who said the willows are better developed than this time a year ago.

Father Willmann thereby maintains his reputation for getting the first pussywillow in Janesville.

Chiefs Want All Drivers Licensed

Chief Fred Gilman, Evansville, was named a member of the executive committee that will draft a bill for licensing of automobile drivers for presentation to the state legislature, at the annual convention of Wisconsin police chiefs in Milwaukee.

The association adopted a resolution favoring the licensing of all automobile drivers as an effective means of making drivers more careful and reducing the number of deaths and accidents incident to driving. Enactment of such a law by the legislature is urged.

Other members of the committee with Mr. Gilman are H. C. Baker, Racine, chairman; F. W. Allen, Ripon; Thomas Shaughnessy, Madison; I. F. Poe, Oconomowoc, and J. G. Laubenheimer, Milwaukee.

WALWORTH VET WESTERN PIONEER

David McNally, 83, Once Overland Stage Driver in Far West.

Walworth—An old pioneer, one of those who crossed the plains in the days when railroads were unknown, is David McNally of Walworth, who recently celebrated his 83rd birthday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Featherstone. He lives with his son, Clarence.

Civil war veteran, overland stage driver, and pioneer settler, Mr. McNally's experiences are filled with interest.

He was in Sacramento, Cal., when the call came for volunteers to fight the rebels, and he enlisted in the 33rd California volunteers. They were a long way from the battle front. They camped in California during the winter of 62-63 and then left for Salt Lake City. From Carson City the men underwent terrible suffering, traveling over the desert, with the intense heat, and no water to quench their thirst, only salt and alkali.

Travel 900 Miles

Nine hundred miles of travel brought them to the Jordan river, where they received orders from Brigham Young that they could not cross. They had gone too far to turn back at the word of one man, so the commander advised Young that he was crossing in the morning, and issued 40 rounds of ammunition. They marched through the center of Salt Lake City, unmolested.

He and his company were stationed at Camp Douglas for two years, and were there when word came of the assassination of President Lincoln. Their army service over, the men started for home by way of Denver, traveling over a trail no white man had traveled.

Live on Wild Game

They were 100 strong, and took four months to make 400 miles, living in luxury on an abundance of wild game and mountain trout. Mr. McNally was provost guard for 19 days, and on the police force for five months, leaving there with two others by horse and wagon for their California home. They left Denver Feb. 1, arrived at Nebraska City Feb. 20, and arrived home March 24, to find everything frozen solid.

Twice Mr. McNally crossed the plains after that, leaving the next spring and returning five years later, cracking a whip over the overland stage line. There were then but eight miles of railroad the other side of the Missouri river. Forty years ago he crossed the plains for the last time, settling upon his homestead near Walworth.

Mr. McNally has four children, Clarence and Mrs. Featherstone; Edith, who lives with Mrs. Featherstone, and Mrs. J. D. Wright, Homedale, Ida.

WISCONSIN LEADER IN SAFETY MOVE

Many Bad Railroad Crossings on State Highways Are Eliminated.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Madison—Wisconsin was one of the leading states in the nation in the elimination of dangerous railroad crossings during 1923, statistics received from the National Association of Highway Officials and announced today by J. T. Donaghey, state highway engineer, reveal. This state eliminated 23 crossings during the past year, the tabulation shows.

In the elimination of crossings during the year, Wisconsin stands fifth. Minnesota stands first for the year, having eliminated 85 crossings; Iowa, second, with 76; North Carolina, third, 57; Texas, fourth, 55; Wisconsin, California and Indiana each eliminated 23 crossings during the year.

Between 1916 and 1923, Wisconsin eliminated a total of 97 crossings, the tabulation shows. Iowa is far in the lead among states for the entire period, having eliminated 496 crossings.

Contrary to the general idea of highway accidents, railroad crossings are responsible only for a small per cent of the deaths, information compiled by the national association shows. During 1923, it is claimed that not more than 2,000 persons were killed by automobile collisions with trains, while the total accidental deaths on highways and streets ran to approximately 15,000.

The program of elimination of grade crossings is going rapidly forward through co-operation of state and federal departments, the association reports. During 1923 alone, 642 crossings were eliminated, while during the 1916-1923 period, 3,393 were eliminated. By far the largest per cent of these—2,042—were eliminated by re-locations.

In Wisconsin, relocations have counted for 94 of the crossing eliminations, overhead structures for 10 and underpassages, three.

RED CROSS OFFICER IS ON WAY HOME

PLAN COURSE IN AID TO INJURED

5-Day School to Be Held for Firemen, Police and Other Workers.

The United States Bureau of Mines, cooperating with the state industrial commission is sending Mine Rescue Car No. 10 to Janesville beginning October 13 to give a week of training in first Aid. The course of training in first aid will be given to men employed in gravel pits, Janesville fire and police departments, New Gas Light Co., Janesville Electric Co., Chevrolet Motor Co., and to employes of other industrial plants.

The meetings will be held in the Chevrolet club and start promptly at 1:30 p. m., Monday, Oct. 13. The course of training requires 15 hours attendance and covers five afternoons.

Objects of Course

Briefly, the work consists of demonstrations in which the men themselves assist, and is divided as follows: 1. The proper method of stopping arterial bleeding from cuts and wounds. 2. The proper and approved methods of applying bandages to various parts of the body. 3. The splinting of fractures. 4. Artificial respiration. 5. Proper handling and care of the injured during transportation.

These schools have been developed to meet a constantly increasing demand for definite, lay instruction in the important principles and practices of first aid on the part of those companies which are confronted with this problem.

Beloit School Held

Getting men back to work with the minimum of lost time, and thus reducing compensation costs, the relieving of much unnecessary suffering, that is the keynote of the first aid school.

Meetings were held in Beloit Aug. 31, Sept. 6, during which 50 men received instructions. A school is being held in Madison this week and 97 men from city departments, public utilities and industries are receiving training.

Now is the Time to Use Wadhams "High"

COLD weather coming! If you have been using Wadhams "Low", (or any other gas) you should switch to Wadhams "High". Your motor will start much easier. Saves your battery. Best in all seasons, but a necessity in cold weather.

What writes the "Blue Book" of Used Car Prices?

"BLUE" Book is right when turn-in time comes and you face the discouraging allowance value that is listed against your car.

Then it is brought home to you that it's not the springs, or the upholstery or the steering gear that have set the ratio of deterioration but the condition and probable future life of the power line!

It's there, in the vital moving parts—motor, transmission, universals, rear-end—that the evil of cheapened fuel has marked its costly debit.

From within, ragged explosions, the uneven power-delivery of carbonized valve action and the feeble friction-protection of heat and kerosene-weakened oil have worked more disaster than the external shocks and legitimate wear of road mileage. Cheapness and carelessness have proved costly luxuries.

Wadhams True Gasoline

frees your car from this needless internal burden—and it actually costs less by the trip or season than the merely pump-cheap substitutes.

The motor that has been consistently operated on Wadhams has never suffered through a kerosene-diluted oil supply. Its valve action has never been impaired by heavy deposits of free carbon. Its power line has not been forced to withstand the racking shocks of a motor fuel that continually misses fire.

From the day you buy your car straight through to the time you sell it, True Gasoline will sharply prove its economy in every phase of your motoring.

WOMAN BRIBED TO TESTIFY AGAINST DAUGHERTY, CLAIM

republican opponent, Senator Smith W. Brookhart, assisted in obtaining Fink's services to induce Miss Stinson to testify.

An investigation of the Daugherty investigation committee has been asked in petitions.

Tell of Meeting

Affidavits by Steck quoted Fink as telling of a meeting with Roxie in February when he invited her to invest in his business.

"I have a bigger deal on right now and you ought to come in on it," Miss Stinson said, according to the affidavit. Fink said he asked her what it was and she told him she was being defrauded out of her just portion of Jesse Smith's estate by Harry M. Daugherty and that she was prepared, if necessary to invent stories that would incriminate Daugherty to such an extent that he would be forced to resign from office, and that she expected to sell her story for $150,000 which she was entitled to. She asked Fink, he said, if he could get some strong democrat to purchase the story she concocted. Fink said he realized she knew nothing positive but was depending upon hearsay and gossip.

Threatened, Assertion

Fink laid the matter before Samuel Ungerleider, a Cleveland broker, who later saw Miss Stinson and told her that if she persisted in her plan he would "have her locked up for malicious slander of a government official," after she told him she had no positive proof of guilt of Daugherty.

The affidavit said Fink believed the incident closed and returned to Buffalo, where he mentioned it only to his attorney Henry Stern.

On March 18, the affidavit continued, Stern informed Fink that a federal warrant charging conspiracy had been issued for him and that Stern added it would be withheld until Fink went to Washington to testify against Daugherty if he agreed to testify.

Fink and Stern went to Washington, the affidavit said, and called on Senator Brookhart, who called in Senator Wheeler.

Is Given Subpoena

"At last we have something to go on," the affidavit quoted Senator Wheeler. He directed Fink to bring Miss Stinson to Washington and informed him he was in the service of the senate committee. He was given a subpoena for Miss Stinson.

Senator Wheeler, Stern and Fink went to Columbus, where Wheeler ordered Fink to serve the subpoena at Miss Stinson's home.

"I went in and handed it to her," the affidavit read and she said "why Zander, you have certainly got me into an awful mess (you know I don't know anything, just as I told Ungerleider."

Fink said he had been forced into it and called Senator Wheeler, who persuaded Miss Stinson to return to Washington, he said.

Enroute to Washington Fink said, Senator Wheeler spent much time talking to Miss Stinson, telling Stern and Fink once that "this woman doesn't know anything, I can't get her to loosen up." Finally at Pittsburgh where they stopped over and took dinner, after continued persuasion, said the affidavit, Senator Wheeler informed Stern and Fink that "he had better get her before the committee at once."

The affidavit told of alleged promises to Fink of an appointment as revenue collector "if I would go along with his plan to oust Daugherty from office," and of a judgeship to Stern.

Senator Wheeler also promised, Miss Stinson that "if she would play the game as he wanted her to" the affidavit said, "he would form a pool among his Democratic senatorial friends and give me the money to go to New York and sell the market short in advance of the news of Daugherty's resignation, which he would immediately enforce and that Miss Stinson would immediately receive 25 percent of the profits of this pool."

Later Senator Wheeler arranged for an interview between Fink and Frank A. Vanderlip, whom Wheeler called "the angel of this committee," the affidavit continued.

High cow honors for September in the Clinton-Rock County Cow Testing association went to the county farm. A purebred Holstein, two years old, milked 1842 pounds of milk and 66.3 pounds of fat on four milkings a day—an unusual record for a first calf heifer.

A cow in the John Wehinger and Son herd, a seven year old purebred Holstein, milked twice a day, made a run of 1371 pounds of milk and 62.2 pounds of fat. High herd average went to the Wehinger farm with an average production of 55.4 pounds of fat and 1007 pounds of milk with 21 cows milking.

MILK MEETING IN CLINTON, OCT. 18

Dairymen to Consider Price Difficulty at Mass Meeting Saturday.

Aroused by the alleged discrimination between the price paid for Wisconsin milk at $2.00 a hundred and that paid for milk delivered in Illinois, a few miles away, at $2.40 a hundred, dairymen in the Clinton district have called a milk meeting for Oct. 18. Fluid milk producers in the other sections of the county are watching the October price controversy with keen interest and will attend the Clinton conference.

Dairymen declare that considerable skim milk is being sent back at three cents a gallon and that much of the milk is tested on the truck or wagon upon delivery and that testing below the minimum mark of the Bowman company is promptly sent back.

"If they don't want our milk, close the plant and get out," demanded one farmer. "We can separate, sell sweet cream and make more net off our product. Down in Harvard the price is $2.40 and here we are in Rock county, having superior cattle, many tested herds, and getting out 40 cents."

The Clinton meeting will be held during the evening in the township hall.

Considering that a climax is coming in the price of milk, dairymen of southern Wisconsin are urged to follow the advice of A. J. Glover, Fort Atkinson, to cull out the non-profitable cows. With every drop in milk price and increase in feed costs, the margin of profit is cut shorter until a cow has to be away above the average in production ability to enable the farmer to show any profit. There is a surplus of dairy products, and with the dealers able to transport immense quantities of milk by railroad car and motor truck tanks, the Chicago zone is not limited.

MISS. DELEGATION TOUR DAIRY FARMS

Pleased With Trip to Practical Dairy Farms in Eastern Section.

"Rock county presented to us the best example of practical dairying—real working herds," was the verdict of the 20 Mississippi visitors on a tour of dairy farms Thursday under the direction of the Rock County Farm Bureau.

The first stop was at the Taylor Brothers farm between Janesville and Milton where the visitors were shown the grade Guernsey herd developed from Shorthorn cows by 12 years of use of a quality herd bull of blooded stock. The profits from this herd were noted.

Milking Shorthorns were inspected at the farms of James Hadden and Sons, R. W. Lamb and Sons, two good Rock Prairie farms, and the visitors were impressed with the records on the dual-purpose cattle and their show ring ability.

The fine Holstein herd of W. J. Ward and Sons was next visited, and here is an outstanding collection of high production cows, big, good type and well uddered with fine records. The herd of Ralph Salisbury, making creditable records was next inspected.

Lunch was served in Clinton and the fine farm of H. O. Natesta made a decided impression on the tourists.

Every cow with a record is the story at the Holstein farms of Julius Offerdale, Clinton dairyman. There is not a "boarder" in the entire herd.

The fine registered stock of Bert Skinner, Beloit, was next on the list. The four year old cow holding the breed record for butter fat was shown along with several of the fine show cattle on this farm. Guernseys were inspected at the herd of Dr. W. A. Mann, including the show herd stock that went through the season with such success in the county exhibit.

The Bowman Dairy plant at Clinton was inspected during the afternoon.

LIGHTNING RODS STOP MILLIONS OF LOSS BY FIRE

By ALLEN B. WEST
Milton Junction, Wis.

For many years as the agriculture instructor of the Janesville high school I went from farm to farm to see and advise the boys in their farm projects. I became very much interested in the welfare of the farmers. It is for that reason that I have set myself at this task of writing a short story that may catch the eye of some farmer reader of the Gazette who has been negligent in providing himself with adequate protection from lightning.

The protection of life and property by the lightning rod is beyond the experimental stage. It has been proved that lightning rods, if properly installed, are an almost sure protection. Prof. Day of the Ontario Agricultural college, after an exhaustive investigation, gives the following percentages of the efficiency of lightning rods for protection: Ontario, 94.5 per cent; Iowa, 98.7 percent; Michigan 99.9 per cent. More and more insurance companies testify to the efficiency of lightning rods by allowing a material reduction on buildings properly roded. The United States government uses lightning rods and recommends them for farm buildings.

Some interesting figures have been secured in our own state. During the fiscal year 1915 there were reported to the state fire marshal 451 lightning fires in unroded buildings, with a loss of $586,450, and 10 such fires in roded buildings. In most of these 10 cases the lack of protection could be traced to defective installation, especially insufficient grounding.

More recent figures show a deplorable loss from lightning fire in Wisconsin. In 1920 there were 14 losses on roded buildings, amounting to $64,185, and 232 in unroded buildings, amounting to $958,925. In 1921 there were eight losses in roded buildings, amounting to $37,585, and 267 in unroded buildings, amounting to $631,208. In 1922 there were 15 in roded buildings, amounting to $109,070, and 191 in unroded buildings, amounting to $438,575; and in 1923, 12 losses in roded buildings, amounting to $103,480, and 167 in unroded buildings, amounting to $332,825.

The steady decrease in farm losses from lightning seems to indicate that farmers are making more and more use of the lightning rod as a protection from losses from lightning. This protection is almost 100 per cent if the rods are of the right material, of sufficient weight per foot, have a sufficient number of points and, above all, are properly grounded.

The heaviest fire hazard on the farm is lightning. During the years 1918 to 1921, inclusive, the lightning loss on farm property in the United States was $16,620,145, or 18 per cent of the total farm fire loss. In Rock county we are suffering from such losses. Less than a month ago occurred such a loss, and others have occurred during the past summer. Rods are almost sure protection against such losses. Your neighbors have provided this protection—why don't you? Rod your wire fences also, to ensure against losses of stock as they lie up against them in a storm. Remember that many insurance companies will make a material reduction in your insurance when you properly rod your farm buildings.

PRICES ON PEARS FOR CANNING DROP

With the receipt of another carload on Friday, canning pears are still the center of attention among Janesville housewives, according to fruit dealers, and the quality this week-end is equal to any time this season. Prices are largely $ to 10 cents below a week ago, when the same quality went for $1.55 to $1.70. They may be had as low as $1.47 this week.

New York peaches have reached the local markets in fair quantities, and are as cheap as any variety this year at $2.65 per bushel. Michigans have been around $3.50. Colorado Elbertas remain at $1.95 per box.

Concord grapes are beginning to come in in larger quantities, but are still scarce for canning purposes, according to dealers. Prevailing prices are 45 cents per basket. Other grapes are higher this week. Tokays and green varieties are 11½ to 15 cents per pound, against 10 to 12 cents last week, but the quality is said to be better. Small green seedless grapes are 20 cents a small basket.

Wolf River Apples

Large Wolf River apples are among the new fruits being displayed this week-end, and sell at four pounds for a quarter. They are recommended for eating, cooking or baking. Ordinary cooking apples are abundant at 5 cents per pound, while new Jonathans are three pounds for a quarter.

Peaches in small baskets for eating are 25 cents, while Bartlett eating pears are 20 to 40 cents a dozen. 10 to 15 cents under prices of last week. Blue plums are 25 cents per basket. Quinces are 10 cents pound.

What looks like the first of an extra-ordinary large crop of cranberries are for sale at 15 cents a pound. Other fruits include Hyslop crabs 12½ to 15 cents pound; bananas, 10 cents per pound to three pounds for a quarter; lemons, 35 cents; and grapefruit, 10 cents each. Oranges are slightly lower this week, selling down to 44 cents.

Winter vegetables, displayed in baskets in front of most stores in town, are a feature this week. Rutabaga is 3½ to 4 cents pound; large carrots, 10 cents bunch; red cabbage, 6 cents pound; home grown cauliflower, 10 to 25 cents each; white turnips, 4 cents pound; beets, 5 cents pound; cabbage, 1½ to 2 cents pound; Spanish onions, 10 cents pound; squash, 15 to 20 cents each; and pumpkin, 15 to 25 cents each.

Tomatoes Near End.

Hope for any larger supplies of ripe tomatoes has been practically given up, and prices stay at their former level of 7½ to 8 cents pound. A good supply of green ones are available, however, at 75 cents bushel. Small yellow tomatoes sell for 10 cents small basket.

Other vegetables are egg plant, 10 cents each; celery cabbage, 10 to 15 cents pound; head lettuce, 15 cents each; green beans, 15 cents pound; Jersey sweet potatoes, four pounds for a quarter; parsley, 6 cents bunch; cucumbers, 5 cents each; celery, 10 cents; green peppers, 3 for 10 cents, and wax beans, 15 cents.

Exceedingly large supplies of potatoes this fall has made them as cheap as in many years, good Rock county stock being obtainable at 18 cents per peck, or 70 cents per bushel.

Butter and eggs are both high for the season however, and remain at the high prices of the past few weeks. Butter is 39 to 45 cents and eggs, 40 cents dozen.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor Gazette:

It is hard to accept unwelcome criticism, especially so to the city when known to originate in pastures green.

We comment on the growing custom of parents bringing children into the card parties of the adults to play with them. The idea is with the parent that the child must have the privileges of amusing itself, and if it can tell one card from another it must be brilliant and should be placed where it can show off. Children used to be taught to be seen, not heard; now they must be both seen and heard and come to the front and have full sway, which trains the child in forwardness. Parents and educators call this "smart." The English comment on the boldness of the American children. A fourteen year old broke up card playing, for the time being. She would take the cards out of one's hand and play them. The mother sat by with the attitude of mind that what Pearl wanted to do, it was her right. The forwardness of children is largely owing to indolence of mind of parents; it is easier to let them do as they please than require them to do as they should. In the education of the youth, a regard for the rights of others is an unknown quantity. Self is made the center and circumference of the universe in which they dwell and this element is the nucleus in wedded unhappiness.

In the game one's reputation as a player is paramount and does not want baby playing for a partner. The hostess does not care to have the pleasure of her guests marred to amuse children for it is not a child's party she is giving.

While in the city, we visited a modern home bake sale and bought cookies. The maker of them must have had these words hanging over the molding board: "Man wants but little here below." If there had been more in one, it would have weighed an ounce. It tasted like more. These were sold by count, which was right and business-like. The buyer could see what he was getting.

The dispenser of fried cakes counted out a dozen of them into a space that only held eleven. Thirteen used to be a baker's dozen, but that went out of style along with what once was called Nature's most uninteresting object—the married man. (We mean the uninteresting object went out of style, not the married man), and floating island, and the green old age. All passed into the discard at about the same time. The pendulum must swing in like degree in the opposite direction, which suggests that perhaps they have established a church dozen; or it may have been that her mind was vacillating and she thought she was on the election board.

Flanked on either side of the fried cakes were cute little biscuits.

The cakes were handled on the fifty-fifty basis; fifty cents for the cakes and fifty for the paper plate. It being nature's law that everything operates by twos, after the plate has served as a container it can be used to boil the teaketic. Nothing is wasted. It is lovely of them to talk honesty and fair dealing.

Peace be with you—till I come again.

LESSON NO. 6

LIGHTING THE DINING ROOM

In some ways the dining room is just the opposite of the living room. The living room has many different uses, but the dining room is seldom used except at meal times. In the living room the furniture is moved about and changed, but in the dining room the arrangement of furniture rarely changes.

The dining table is in the center of the room, and it is the center of interest. It should be the most brightly lighted object in the whole room. There are a number of different kinds of fixtures which may be hung from the ceiling to provide good lighting, and almost all of them may be used improperly to provide bad lighting.

THE CENTER CEILING FIXTURE

Whatever the kind of fixture, it is important that the eyes of anyone seated at the table be protected against the glare of the bulbs which furnish the light. There are two ways to do this. 1. Be sure that the shades are long enough, and of the right shape. For example, the next picture shows a fixture on which one bulb (A) is well shaded and the other bulb (B) is badly shaded.

The shade which is narrower at the bottom protects the eyes of the person at the table. 2. For a given shade, be sure the fixture is low enough over the table (but not so low as to be in the way or make it impossible to see the person sitting opposite).

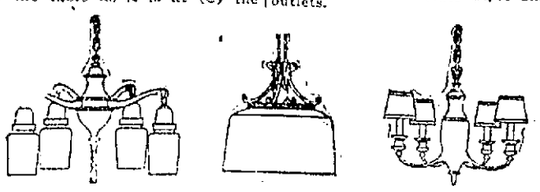

Now look at the fixture in (C) and (D). When this fixture is as high above the table as it is at (C) the glare from the bulb is directly in the eyes of everyone seated at the table, but if it is put down closer to the table, as at (D) the fixture completely hides the bulb, and we have excellent dining room lighting without glare. For most fixtures it is best to see that the bottom of the shades is not more than 36 inches above the table for (A) and 24 inches above the table for (D). Where candle fixtures are used, shades are needed not only to protect the eyes from the glare, but to reflect some of the light which would otherwise go up to the ceiling or down on the table.

The fixtures over the table will need bulbs with a total of from 100 to 200 watts.

OTHER LIGHTING

Bracket fixtures on the walls and candlesticks on the buffet may be used to add decoration, provided they are well shaded and are not so bright as to be annoying or to produce glare and eye-strain. When they are used, the bulbs should not be larger than 15 or 25 watts.

Convenience outlets should be installed for electric appliances. If used on the dining table, a convenience outlet may be placed in the floor under the table, or on the under side of the table itself, so that the unsightly cord need not hang from a bulb socket and cause one part of the lighting fixture to be dark. Duplex convenience outlets which permit the use of two appliances may be installed for practically the same cost as the older style single outlets.
